Reveals Ports Was Short For 'Several Years'

Examiner's Audit of Court Accounts Made Public; Reports Ousted Clerk Borrowed To Cover Loss Before; Marriott Undecided On Action.

The long-awaited state examiner's special audit, disclosing a shortage, since made up, of more than $4,000 in the accounts of Allen K. Ports, former clerk of municipal court, was made public today.

It showed that Ports had been short in his accounts, by his own admission, for "several years" and that he had managed to cover up a shortage at the previous state audit, made in 1937, by borrowing money and depositing it in court accounts.

But whether any steps to prosecute Ports would be taken remained undecided today, so far as County Prosecutor Glenn W. Marriott was concerned, although he admitted that there was a "possibility" of a grand jury session to investigate the case.

A charge of embezzlement already has been drawn against A. F. Marvin, former village clerk in Plymouth, in whose accounts shortages were found. Marriott filed the charge against Marvin when village officials declined to do so.

Of the Ports case, Marriott said today:

"I have not seen the examiner's report, and until I do I will take no action. Nor am I in a position now to say what action, if any, I will take after I have seen the report."

Under the Ohio general code, a prosecutor is charged with the duty of prosecuting, within a period of 90 days, any public official cited in an examiner's report with "malfeasance or gross neglect of duty" for which a criminal penalty is provided by law.

Neither the word "malfeasance" nor "gross neglect of duty" appears in the report of State Examiner Elmer Zook, however.

Up to Prosecutor, Judge Says.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch said any prosecution of Ports would be "up to the prosecutor."

Pointing out the specific instructions covering such cases as set up in the general code, Kalbfleisch said: "I intend to let the law take its course."

Zook's report set the shortage at $4,259.31, but said that additional discrepancies might be disclosed through further investigation after he completes the general city audit, which has been

Cable Wed 2 Years After Mysterious Slaying of Wife

CANTON — (AP) — Dueber S. Cable, Canton contractor whose wife was mysteriously slain two years ago and whose former paramour killed herself last May, is married again.

Friends learned today that Cable, 50, and Mrs. Lola F. Lanich of Whitney Point, N. Y., were married Feb. 9 at Winchester, Va. Mrs. Lanich, the former Miss Lola Whalen, is a native of Paulding county, O., and has lived several years at Whitney Point, where Cable is supervising a building project.

A shotgun assassin killed Rose Beiter Cable, the contractor's first wife, March 11, 1937, as the 47-year-old church worker was covering her canary for the night. A charge of birdshot tore through the window while Cable was in Cleveland.

He was questioned and later released. Last May Miss Theresa Ludwig, 46-year-old divorcee for whom Cable maintained a liquor-stocked Akron apartment before his wife's death, killed herself at Conneaut, O. She left a note saying "hired killers" were responsible for the slaying of Mrs. Cable, and the contractor again was questioned and released. Police declared there was no clue to the slayer.

Die In Chair For Florida Kidnap-Killing

PASTOR'S SON WALKS CALMLY TO DEATH SEAT

REITERATES 'INNOCENCE'

Abductor's Young Wife Visits Him Short Time Before Walk to Chair Begins.

(By Associated Press)

RAIFORD, Fla.—Franklin Pierce McCall was put to death in the electric chair today for the fatal kidnaping of five-year-old James Bailey Cash, jr., at Princeton, Fla., last May.

The switch was thrown at 11:08 a. m.

McCall was electrocuted just four days short of nine months from the time he kidnaped the tow-headed lad.

Admitting in open court that he alone stole "Skeegie" and collected $10,000 ransom from the father, McCall insisted he did not want to harm his victim and had smothered him accidentally.

Visited By Wife.

McCall's pretty young wife visited him this morning, departing dry-eyed after remaining in the cell about half an hour.

Another last-minute visitor was an uncle, Amos McCall of Jasper, Fla.

Sheriff Arthur Coleman of Dade county, who threw the switch, read the death warrant to McCall in his death house cell.

As the sheriff read, McCall moved from one foot to the other. He looked at Coleman three or four times, otherwise gazed at the floor.

When Coleman finished, McCall said to him in a calm, even voice: "Well, Mr. Coleman, I want you to know that I understand your position and you just take it easy."

It was Coleman who arrested the kidnaper and turned him over to Federal Bureau of Investigation agents.

Reads Manuscript.

McCall went to the chair calmly after reading aloud a hand-written manuscript in which he reasserted his innocence of the crime.

He compared his case to that of Christ.

"Judas Iscariot sold Christ for 30 pieces of silver," the husky young minister's son read from the paper. "It would be interesting to know how much someone got in this case."

McCall had been strapped in the chair when he made the statements, and the straps were adjusted by prison attendants when he started reading.

ASSIGNS TWO TO WARD PROBLEM

Glessner Selects Committee to Remedy Overcrowding at Hospital.

A building committee to study possible ways of increasing ward space at Mansfield General hospital, was named today by Ross A. Glessner, president of the hospital board.

The committee is made up of two members, E. B. Swigart as chairman and Matthew Mayer. Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, hospital superintendent, will work with the committee.

Full authority to take whatever steps are necessary to provide more ward space was given the building committee at the annual meeting of the hospital board in January. Creation of the committee followed submission to the board by Dr. Fonkalsrud of a plan to provide for a ward large enough for 16 additional beds. This plan, however, has been dropped, Dr. Fonkalsrud said today, because it was found it would not work out satisfactorily.

Other plans to provide additional space will be worked out by Dr. Fonkalsrud, and submitted

OLSEN TO ACT

Governor 'Willing' to Assist Billings' Pardon Quest.

SAN FRANCISCO—(U.P.)—Gov. Culbert Olsen said today he was "willing" to apply to the California supreme court for approval to pardon Warren K. Billings despite the state advisory pardon board's refusal to make such an application.

The board's 3 to 2 refusal apparently left Billings' sole hope for pardon in Olson's hands. When he pardoned Tom Mooney, last month, Olsen said he would like to pardon Billings also but he was powerless to act because Billings was a two-time offender.

The pardon board merely voted on the question of recommending a pardon to the state supreme court. It too was powerless to grant a pardon. The law decrees that in the case of a man twice convicted of a felony, the high court must first recommend a pardon before the governor can grant it.

PAPER QUITS IN OKLAHOMA CITY

Scripps-Howard Daily Had Been In Business 32 Years.

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — The Oklahoma News, Scripps-Howard daily newspaper here, suspended publication today. The News published afternoon and Sunday editions. It had been in business more that 32 years.

The withdrawal left Oklahoma City with two daily newspapers, the Daily Oklahoman and the Oklahoma City Times, both members of the Associated Press.

In announcing the suspension, the Scripps-Howard organization said the News had been operated at a loss most of the time.

Comprehensive C. of C. Survey Shows City Ideal For Industry

Probably the most comprehensive industrial survey ever compiled in Mansfield had been completed today by Paul W. Williams, secretary-manager of the Chamber of Commerce. It was sort of a parting gift from Williams who will leave Monday to assume the managing directorship of the Chamber of Commerce at Dayton.

Robert Miller, assistant secretary of the chamber, collected the factual data which is presented in a concise form and pictures Mansfield as an ideal industrial location.

In the introduction, the survey says:

"We have analyzed the problem of location from the standpoint of the industrialist's needs to anticipate his questions and to provide him the information in which we believe he is most interested."

The survey is illustrated with various maps showing the Mansfield merchandising area, population areas and the city's location to large industrial markets. It also carries graphs and charts explaining the living conditions, banking interests and climatic conditions here.

Incorporated also is much data concerning governmental functions and local and state taxes.

Williams said that the booklet

Win Top Film Honors Again

Bette Davis, Tracy Carry Off More 'Oscar' Awards

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES—"Oscars," the coveted golden awards which the great and small of Hollywood annually bestow for the most notable in motion picture achievement, joined other "oscars" today in the homes of Bette Davis, Spencer Tracy and Frank Capra, honored by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences for the best acting and directorial accomplishments of 1938.

Miss Davis and Tracy were two-time victors and Capra was named for the third time in the 11-year history of the academy banquet.

12,000 Cast Votes

It was a setting in the familiarly glamorous Hollywood fashion which was provided for last night's announcement of the selections—made by all Hollywood, from the biggest producers to the unsung electricians and extras, 12,000 in all.

A giant "oscar" decorated the entrance of the downtown hotel in which the banquet was held. Lead "oscars" to be used as paperweights were at each place as favors. On the stage was the battery of golden "oscars" for the winners.

Miss Davis, taking the feminine acting award for her part in "Jezebel," for Warner Bros., said credit was "due entirely" to the direction of William Wyler.

Tracy, chosen last year for "Captains Courageous," repeated this year with "Boys Town," for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Capra, academy president, won recognition for his direction of Columbia's "You Can't Take It With You," which also was selected as the year's outstanding production.

Another repeater was Walter Brennan, chosen as having given the screen its best male supporting role in "Kentucky." Fay Bainter received the feminine supporting prize for her part in "Jezebel."

Shirley Temple, giggling as she handed Walt Disney a special award, forgot to mention that it was for his pioneering a new entertainment field with "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." The audience figured it out, however, because Disney's "oscar" was in reality one big "oscar" surrounded by seven little "oscars."

RETURN TO JOBS

Auto Workers Back at Posts in 3 Detroit Plants.

DETROIT— (U.P.) —The Plymouth, Dodge and Briggs Automobile Manufacturing plants resumed normal operations today after a 24-hour shutdown which both factions of the United Automobile Workers dual union claimed they had halted.

Although Plymouth was not working today because of a four-day week production schedule, the night shifts worked last night and H. L. Weckler, operations manager, said it would resume Monday. Briggs and Dodge likewise were affected but had small crews working in preparation for Monday.

The shutdown which left approximately 30,000 men idle for a day was stopped when R. J. Thomas, president of the CIO-supported group, and Homer Martin, the other UAW leader, called the men back to the factories.

THREE ACCUSED

Girl, 2 Companions Charged With Robbing Cab Driver.

COLUMBUS—(INS)—Two young men and a girl companion, identified by William Ault, 23, Chillicothe taxi driver, as the trio that robbed him of $8 a few hours earlier, were arrested in Columbus today and returned to Chillicothe to face charges.

They gave their names as Arlene Johnson, 21, and Ray Landers, 24, both of Detroit, and Edward Bryant, 31, of Ashland, Ky.

THUGS GET $400

Trio Robs Tavern Operator, Flee After Exchange of Shots.

SHARON, Pa. — (INS) — Three armed bandits today held up John Tescula, owner of the "Little Casino" cafe in nearby Brookfield township, O., and escaped with $400 after an exchange of gunfire.

Tescula was forced to drive his automobile a mile from his cafe where the bandits took his pocketbook. They fled in the direction of Youngstown.

CITY LASHED BY BLIZZARD, COLD BROKEN

CAUGHT BETWEEN CARS

Wind Whips Snow Into Drifts 2 to 3 Feet Deep; Mercury Rises as Blizzard Ends.

A howling blizzard which threatened to block highways in the Mansfield area last night ended one of the worst cold waves of the winter, but it resulted in the accidental death of a B. and O. railroad employe at Willard.

The victim was Sylvester J. Schank, 49, yard conductor and for a number of years yardmaster for the railroad company, who was fatally injured when he was crushed between two freight cars in the Willard yards.

Blocks Streets, Roads.

Although the snowfall was not heavy in the Mansfield section, a strong southwest wind piled it into drifts two and three feet deep across streets and roads.

As the blizzard subsided late last night the temperature began to rise and stood at 27 degrees by 10 a. m. today. The forecast was for fair and slightly colder weather tonight followed by increasing cloudiness Saturday. A low of seven degrees above zero was recorded early last night.

Despite the drifting during the night, state and county highway department snow plows kept main routes open. The state highway maintenance department had six plows and 12 men busy during the night, while the county force included four plows and eight men.

Rams Car on Next Track.

The accident at Willard occurred about 10:20 p. m., at the height of the blizzard, when a car on which Schank was riding jumped the track and rammed into a car on the next track. Schank was caught between the cars, company officials said.

James Stout and Jack Frost, crewmen, found Schank on the ground between the cars, and he was taken to Municipal hospital where he died an hour later of chest injuries.

Schank had been an employe of the company for 18 years. He was a member of the Masonic lodge and the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

Funeral services will be held at 1:30 p. m. Sunday with Rev. H. R. Chalfant of the First M. E. church officiating. Burial will be at Lorain.

STUDENTS RIOT

2,000 Parade in Warsaw, Try to March on Nazi Embassy.

WARSAW, Poland—(U.P.)—Polish students rioted in the streets of Warsaw today in the largest anti-German demonstration since Poland and Germany signed a non-aggression agreement five years ago.

More than 2,000 students attempted to march on the German embassy after mass meetings at four Warsaw universities and colleges. Speakers bitterly attacked Germany.

Police reserves were summoned when the meetings broke up and the students began to march through the streets. A cordon was thrown around the embassy. Firemen were summoned and the students were driven back with hoses.

To High Court?

Riley B. Rutledge, dean of the law school of the University of Iowa, was reliably reported today to have the "inside track" for nomination by President Roosevelt to the supreme court, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation by Associate Justice Louis D. Brandeis. Major factor is Rutledge's western residence. Court personnel at present time is predominantly eastern.

SPAIN PREPARES FULL SURRENDER

President Azanda, Aides Burn Documents, Get Ready to Proclaim War's End.

BULLETIN

PARIS—(AP)—The chamber of deputies today gave Premier Daladier a vote of confidence, supporting his decision to ask the cabinet Monday to grant full recognition to the Nationalist government of Spain. The vote was 323 to 261.

(By United Press)

PARIS—Manuel Azana, president of Loyalist Spain and other leaders who refused to continue the civil war, were completing arrangements today to announce the end of the third Spanish Republic.

Records were being packed and other documents were being burned at the Spanish embassy here, where Spain's chief refugee took asylum after the fall of Barcelona. Azana held a final conference today to decide on procedure for relinquishing the presidency.

The announcement awaits the official notification by Great Britain and France that they recognize the government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco. Azana then will hand his resignation to Diego Barrio Martinez, president of the Loyalist parliament.

Barrio will summon members of parliament who are in exile in Paris to a secret meeting. He will announce Azana's resignation and say there is no successor because

ROOSEVELT GOES BACK TO FLEET

MIAMI, Fla.—President Roosevelt rejoined the fleet in the Atlantic east of the West Indies today after a brief visit at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands, where he attended to his mail from Washington.

The chief executive aboard the cruiser Houston was expected within the new 24 hours to witness the decisive action between opposing sections of the battle fleet divided for the purpose of testing the defenses against invasion.

SENATE WANTS U. S. TO CLEAR DEFENSE AIMS

Criticism Breaks Out Again After House Rejects Plan to Fortify Guam.

DEFEATED 205 TO 168

Democrats Join Republicans in Opposition to Naval Air Base Proposal.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—New senatorial criticism of the administration's foreign policy broke out today after house rejection of the controversial Guam naval base project.

The latter was defeated, 205 to 168, when a sizable bloc of Democrats joined Republicans in opposition. During the thundering debate, foes termed the proposed harbor improvements on the far away island "a dagger at the throat of Japan."

With the Guam provision eliminated, the house yesterday quickly passed the remainder of the administration bill authorizing a $48,800,000 series of naval air bases in the Pacific, Puerto Rico, and the continental United States. Only four members rose in opposition on the final vote.

Would Delay Debate.

Even before the bill formally was sent to the senate, several senators declared the defense program should not be debated until the government's stand on foreign affairs is clarified.

At the same time, Senators Borah (R., Ida.) and Johnson (R., Cal.) took the leadership in a bipartisan movement to formulate a statement of foreign policy based on the principle of avoiding conflict.

House leaders, who had pleaded for approval of the $5,000,000 Guam project on the ground it did not mean fortification of the island, later interpreted the vote as primarily one on foreign policy.

Democratic Leader Rayburn said, "I guess if the Guam improvement had been recommended by the rivers and harbors committee instead of by the naval committee if would have gone through all right."

'Commercial Necessity.'

Previously Rayburn had told the house the improvement was needed for commercial seaplane routes

NAZI TAXES UP

Drastic Increases Made to Pay for 5-Year Plan.

BERLIN—(U.P.)—Drastic tax increases, hitting rich and middle class alike, were decreed by the government today, apparently part of the belt-tightening program of the five-year plan.

An official commentary accompanying the law said some of the increases were designed as social measures to iron out existing inequalities between rich and poor and others were matters of "simple necessity."

Under the new law, the average middle class German will pay approximately $40 a year in income taxes. Higher income tax brackets would be hit much harder.

NO 'FREE LIST'

Everybody To Pay To Get In N. Y. Fair, Whalen Says.

NEW YORK—(AP)—City officials—and everybody else—will have to pay to see the New York world's fair, because there just won't be any free list.

Grover A. Whalen, president of the fair, broke the news, and Mayor Laguardia followed with an executive order to all city officials to "not expect or to promise free passes."

NAZIS KILL TRIO

Three Executed at Dawn for Alleged Espionage.

BERLIN—(AP)—Three men were executed at dawn today as traitors, convicted of spying for an unidentified foreign state. The simple announcement said the three, Adolf Erbrich, 34, Bruno Labisch, 24, and Wilhelm Mroczek, 36, made connections with the intelligence service of a foreign state and "conducted continuous espionage in favor of this country."

Zimbalist's Violin Entrances 900 In Civic Music Finale

By JANE WILLIAMS

A lonely little man, with greying hair and unimpressive in appearance, stood before a Mansfield audience of music lovers last night at Senior High school auditorium and entranced it with the voice of his violin.

But the player was no more ordinary than the violin, for he was Efrem Zimbalist, one of the truly great violinists of the world, and his violin was made by one Antonius Stradivarius of Cremona almost 250 years ago, and is worth $50,000 today. There are about 300 Stradivari in existence and Zimbalist has several of them in his collection of old violins.

More than 900 persons braved the blizzard last night to hear him play and felt well repaid. In fact his last encore, Saint-Saens' "The Swan," would have more than repaid them for venturing out last night.

Zimbalist, who made his first visit to Mansfield as the final number on the 1938-39 program of the Civic Music association, has been playing to American audiences for about 27 years, and yet, as he looks out over his audience there is an air of complete detachment and aloofness about him. Sometimes he appears stoical, and again he smiles quizzically and a little shyly.

Perhaps it was imagination—but there were many times last night when he closed his eyes that

FEBRUARY MARRIAGE REVEALED AT PARTY

Miss Virginia Frye, Dr. Riley E. Frush Wed Early This Month In Cleveland Church; Bride's Mother Makes Announcement.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the recent marriage of Miss Virginia Frye and Dr. Riley E. Frush was made yesterday evening, when the bride's mother, Mrs. H. W. Frye entertained in her honor at the Susie Janis home on Park avenue west road. The date of the wedding, Feb. 4, 1939, was revealed on streamers attached to miniature colonial bouquets which marked the places of the guests at the luncheon table later in the evening.

The former Miss Frye, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Frye, 26 Wolfe avenue, became the bride of Dr. Frush at the Calvary Presbyterian church in Cleveland on Feb. 4. Rev. G. H. Higley, pastor of that church, performed the single ring ceremony. Two former schoolmates of the couple, Miss Dorothy Sutherin and Dr. Robert Morgan, both of Cleveland, were the attendants.

Graduated Here.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and the School of Nursing at St. Luke's hospital in Cleveland. Since her graduation from the hospital in 1936, Mrs. Frush has been doing private duty nursing. She is a member of Gamma chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority.

Dr. Frush, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frush of Willard, was graduated from Northwestern university and Northwestern University Medical school. While attending the university, he was affiliated with Acacia and Phi Beta Pi fraternities. Dr. Frush served his internship at St. Luke's hospital and is now the resident physician at Mansfield General hospital. The couple will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

Bridge was in play at four tables during the last evening's party, when the theme of spring and flowers formed a pleasant contrast to the blizzard outside. The bridge tallies had tiny floral bouquets on them, and the long table, at which refreshments were served was centered with a low arrangement of pink, orchid, white and salmon sweetpeas.

There was a small colonial bouquet at each of the guests' places, and the table was lighted with tall white tapers and decorated with tulle and fern. Prizes in the evening's bridge games were awarded to Mrs. Joseph Kemp and Miss Susan Anderson. Mrs. Frye presented the honoree with a gift of linen.

Mrs. Frush will be feted with a shower on March 9 at the home of Miss Eileen Logan on South Main street. Associate hostesses for the occasion will be Miss Miriam Frietchen, Mrs. Howard Yarnell, Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. William Terry.

GO TO MT. VERNON.

Members of the Women of the Moose have been invited to attend the public initiation service of the Mt. Vernon lodge on March 9, it was announced yesterday.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Luncheon Served To Mansfield Club

A 1 p. m. luncheon was served at a long table decorated with a bowl of pink roses yesterday when Mrs. Julius Weber entertained members of the Timely Topics club at the Towne House. After luncheon the 12 members went to the Weber home on West First street where Mrs. John Massa conducted a business meeting.

Mrs. George Wintersteen was in charge of the program, and she talked on "Notable Catholic Authors" giving biographical data on Hilliare Belloc, Gilbert Chesterton, Kathleen Norris, Agnes Repplier and Alfred J. Kilmer.

A general discussion followed, and it was then announced that Mrs. Frank Mahoney would entertain March 9 at her Sherman avenue home.

Officers Elected At Needlecraft Session

Mrs. Brainard Hoffer was elected president of the Needlecraft club yesterday afternoon when 12 members of that group met at the home of Mrs. Bert Velzy, 21 Blecker street. Mrs. Albert Bowersock was chosen to serve as the new secretary, and Mrs. Roy Crider will be the treasurer.

Two guests, Mrs. Leonard Rider and Miss Florence Michalski, were present for the meeting when the members played games and contests and quilted. The afternoon's prizes were awarded to Mrs. Crider and Mrs. John Schnorr. The club will meet again on March 9 at the home of Mrs. Belle Arnold in Garden Acres.

Birthday Party Given For Pocahontas Lodge

There were 33 members of the Pocahontas lodge in attendance at a birthday party of that organization last evening at Eagles hall. Mrs. J. W. Weil and Mrs. Frances Wolfe were in charge of arrangements for the affair.

After the short business session, conducted by Mrs. Martha Rogers, the group played five hundred and bunco. Mrs. Nannie Lowman, Mrs. Ann Weaver, Mrs. Clara Weaver and Mrs. Lulu Ameter won the prizes. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. The next regular meeting of the lodge will be held in Eagles hall on March 9.

Several Parties Given In Honor of Mansfielders, Guest

IN THE past two days several parties have been given to entertain Mansfielders. Last night 16 members of the Auxiliary to the Master Plumbers and their husbands gave a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Alex Grassick, East Fourth street. Chinese checkers were played, and the guest of honor was presented with a gift by the hostesses.

Last night Miss Edna Bookwalter, who was celebrating her 18th birthday, was surprised at a family dinner party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bookwalter, Gleasner avenue. On Wednesday afternoon she was also feted by a group of classmates who called at her home. Mrs. Bookwalter served a luncheon at a table decorated with George Washington appointments, and a birthday cake.

* * *

Another party, although not in celebration of a birthday, was the affair given Wednesday by Mrs. Blaine Johnson, Ashland road. Mrs. Johnson entertained several friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Emmet A. Miller, Middleton. Guests included Mrs. Howard Miller, Mrs. Charles Ray, Mrs. F. B. Risley, Mrs. Linnie Mae Decker, Mrs. Kenneth Cooke, Perrysville, and Mrs. Job Hess, Lucas.

Complete Arrangements For Tea To Be Given Sunday

COMMITTEES for the musicale and tea to be given by the glee club of the Business and Professional Womens club this Sunday afternoon were disclosed this morning, as final plans were announced by officers of the organization. The affair, which will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 4 p. m., will feature Miss Charlet Cellars, flutist, and S. K. Jorgenson, violinist.

The sale of tickets is in charge of Mrs. Falsom B. Teeter assisted by Margaret Wheeler. Tickets for the event, which is open to the public, may be obtained from either of these women or from other members of the organization, or at the door Sunday afternoon.

Those who will receive members and guests at the ballroom door are Dorothy Claus, Fanny Ray, Julia BeVier and Pearl Wierman. The ushers are Irma Augustine, Esther Snyder, Marguerite Speas and Mildred Parry.

Tea will be poured following the program by Laura Konrad and Florence Young.

An invitation to attend the Galion intercity dinner meeting March 9 at the Parish house was also announced. Miss H. Pearl Von Au, state president from Cleveland, will be guest speaker, and a one-act play will be presented by the Galion Drama Workshop players. Miss Marjorie High, transportation chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

The next regular meeting of the group will be the birthday party meeting March 8 at which time the club will celebrate its 15th anniversary of organization. Dr. C. L. Anspach, president of Ashland college, will be the guest speaker. Those in charge of arrangements are Bertha Reinewald, Emma Reinewald, Teresa Pfeifer, Helen Herring, Flora Lentzy, Pearl Wierman and Adelaide Underwood.

KID PARTY.

A "kid party" was held last night by members of the Semper Fidelis class of the South Main Street Evangelical church at the home of Mrs. Robert Herrold, 05 Sturges avenue. After the business meeting, games were played and pictures of the guests taken. Mrs. Charles Miller won the costume prize. A luncheon was served at the close of the session.

GROUP SEWS.

There were 16 members of the Sewing group of the First Congregational church. Mrs. Arthur Cline, chairman, was in charge of the meeting, and Miss Effie Snyder supervised the sewing done by the group. Luncheon was served at 1 p. m. with Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson, Mrs. V. R. Sparks and Mrs. Fannie Carrier in charge. The next meeting is March 16.

HAVE PARTY.

Church Circles Conduct Regular Business Meets

Two of the circles from the Park Avenue Baptist church conducted meetings yesterday at homes of the members. Circle One was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Charles Keller, 123 North Mulberry street, when 10 members and one guest gathered for a session. Mrs. Wallace Campbell conducted a business meeting, and Mrs. George Vawter led the devotions. In the afternoon members sewed for the hospital. No place was announced, but the next meeting will be March 21.

Mrs. Charles Swisher, South Boulevards, entertained 11 members of Circle Three at her home. A talk on the first book of the Bible was given by Mrs. Charles Abele, and Miss Elizabeth Hullt led the devotions. The next meeting will be March 24 with Mrs. Clair Casto, South Main street.

Entertain Guests At Session of Aid Group

Three out-of-town guests, Mrs. J. L. Banks and Mrs. T. W. Loomis, of Canton, and Mrs. Richard Eberhardt of Loudonville, were present for a meeting of the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, 405 West Fifth street. Mrs. Charles Collier and Mrs. L. L. Wolf served at the associate hostesses.

Mrs. E. W. High conducted the business session, at which time, Mrs. J. C. Trine was received as a new member of the organization. Cootie was the diversion of the afternoon and prizes were won by Mrs. A. J. Jesson and Mrs. Thomas Reader. Patriotic appointments were used later when refreshments were served. Mrs. Franklin Haupt will entertain the group March 23 at her home, 483 Park View street.

Honor Chapter Pledge At Party Last Night

Miss Thelma Derr, who was recently pledged to Beta chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority, was the guest of honor at a party given by that chapter at the home of Miss Virginia Chew on Highland avenue yesterday evening. The chapter will have formal initiation services for Miss Derr Sunday afternoon, followed by a tea at Miss Eleanor Clingan's home on Vennum avenue.

Bridge was the diversion at last evening's party, and later refreshments were served, buffet style. The table was lighted with tall red tapers and decorated with a floral centerpiece. The next regular meeting of the chapter will be with Mrs. Clare Bell at her home on Maple street.

Informally Speaking...

SOUTHERN VACATIONERS: Herbert Schettler, Henry Huston, Dr. O. H. Schettler and Dr. W. H. Baker of Bellville are down in Florida now. . . . They drove down recently with the express purpose of fishing and golfing—and they won't be back until they've had enough of both. . . . They've been to West Palm Beach and Hollywood already—and plan to travel to all the rest of the Florida cities which offer good golf courses. . . . Some other Mansfielders are vacationing at the "City of 100 Lakes" these days—Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Constance and Mrs. E. C. Bonant are spending two weeks in Winter Haven, Fla.

WHEN the pledges of Chi Sigma sorority were asked to perform for the active members the other night, they willingly (?) obliged with an old-fashioned mellerdrammer—in pantomime. . . . The playlet was almost side-splitting with such idle gestures as the villain stamping his feet by pasting stamps on the soles of his shoes—and when the hero pressed the heroine's hand, he did it with a flatiron!

Swimming in the blue waters off the coast of Miami Wednesday morning . . . back in the thick of an Ohio blizzard Wednesday evening. Modern transportation did that for Dr. Arthur Sprecher—who has just returned from a three-week Florida vacation. He couldn't resist just one more plunge Wednesday morning before starting home by plane. That was at 8 a. m. and at 7 p. m. he was in Cincinnati—where a blizzard was raging. Mrs. Sprecher is staying over in Cincinnati for a few days, and Art came home yesterday, sporting a grand suntan.

YOU might say that Helen (Schroer) Weldon made her debut at the Zimbalist concert at the high school last evening. Helen has been ill for these many months, and her appearance at the concert—if it wasn't actually a debut—was the first time she has been out for a long, long time. And, of course, many of her friends and acquaintances were more than pleased to see her up and about doing things again.

The Zimbalist concert, by the way, recalled a lot of pleasant memories for Paul W. Williams. . . . Back in 1918, he was music critic for the Youngstown Telegram (which has since gone the way of many newspapers and disappeared from the scene) and covered a concert by Zimbalist—the last one ever given in the old Grand Opera House in Youngstown. . . . And for that concert, Zimbalist played one of the selections he gave last night—the Concerto In E Minor by Mendelssohn. . . . Paul still cherishes an autographed picture Zimbalist gave him that memorable night 21 years ago.

Helen Glattke and her young son, Arthur, jr., are not on the local scene at present—they're spending a few days with Helen's mother in Toledo.

IT SEEMS to be a moot point—whether hearing about summer temperatures makes one feel warmer or colder when a blizzard is under way outside. . . . Anyway the thermometers are registering 82 degrees down in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., these days—according to a card from Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Frankeberger, who are there for the winter. . . . Fred (Pete) Martin is visiting with them . . . and Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman (who are taking a trailer trip through Florida) are spending a few days with them too. . . . They travel to Key West occasionally and hope to attend the Miami dog races soon.

Post script on the spelling bee at the North Lake Park association dinner: When Mrs. Harry Haag succeeded in spelling "jardiniere" correctly after 30 persons had gone down on it, there were only four persons left in the bee—and their superiority was short-lived because they all lost out trying to spell "bologna."

CONVICT'S DAUGHTER + + +

By RUTH RAY KANE

(Copyright, 1939.)

READ THIS FIRST:

Asked to leave her boarding house because she had no money to pay rent, Lona Ackerman finds herself stranded on a park bench. He offers to treat her to something to eat. After telling him her father is in the penitentiary for murder, Lona learns the stranger's name is Jim Claridge. He obtains a hotel room for her and promised to call her next day.

CHAPTER FOUR

Shabby and commonplace as it was, the hotel room was almost unbelievable luxury to Lona after Mrs. Peterman's and the park bench. Brushing her curling brown hair before the dresser mirror, she wondered what her father would say if he could see her now, and what he would think if he knew she had taken money from a strange man. She would never tell him, she decided.

In her letters these last three months she had never breathed a word about being out of work, or the sickening tramp, tramp, of the streets that had been grinding her shoes to pieces and her soul to shreds. She hadn't the heart to add to his already too heavy burden. Especially when it couldn't have done the slightest good.

She had seen her father only once since that black day six years ago, when the gates of the gray prison at the state capital had closed on his bowed head. He had permitted her only one visit.

"I can't stand to have you see me here," he had told her sadly, and she would never forget the sight of his white face shining against the drab plainness of the tiny prison sitting room, a face already touched, after only a month's absence from her, with the slowness of expression she had learned to associate with prison bars. "You're not to come again," he had commanded her, in his quiet voice.

She had stared at him unbelievingly.

"But, daddy!" she had burst out. 'I've got to come! Surely you can't mean you don't want to see me?"

"I can't stand it, Lona. I tell you!" The pain in his eyes had cut her to the heart. "You're too young and too unspoiled to be coming to this place. I want you to try and forget me. And you must leave Bridgewater, too. I'll never be satisfied until I know your are away from it all. I want you to go to the city. Start over where nobody knows you and about—me. You're young and strong and you'll find work. And maybe there'll be a young man some day soon, and he mustn't connect you up with—all this. Don't you see, Lona, girl?"

She had nodded, unable to speak. In her heart she knew he was right. She hadn't told him that, since the trial that had put him in prison all Bridgewater had been watching her, talking, whispering behind their hands. She had never intended to let him know that. But he had guessed. Poor daddy!

After that visit to him, she had sold the furniture in the old house where she had lived ever since she could remember And with every piece of it, there had seemed to go something out of her heart

When it had been reduced to a few pitiful dollars, she had gone to the city as her father had wanted her to do. She remembereb herself, a raw, wistful little girl with brown hair and sad blue eyes, walking into the beehive of a big city office with the letter her father's lawyer had given her clutched in her hand

That letter had secured her a job. Work had been plentiful then. And she was really a competent stenographer. Daddy had seen to that. He had been a teacher in the business school back in Bridgewater, and he had just finished testing her on her last lesson in shorthand when—it happened!

Her hand relaxed on the hairbrush now, as she recalled the first time she had taken dictation in the Ardmore offices. Old Stephen Ardmore had read her letter of introduction, and looked her over with kindly understanding in his wrinkled face Then he had given her a pad and began to rattle off a test letter in his gruff voice, a letter like the familiar ones her father had run through with her night after night. As she had set down the well-learned pothooks and dashes, it had taken all her self-control to keep from flinging the pad from her and bursting into tears Only the realization that she must write to her father, and that she couldn't tell him she had failed him and his teaching made her stick to it.

In the five years she remained with Stephen Ardmore, she never took the cover from her typewriter of a morning or listened to the familiar, "Yours of the 4th instance received . . ." that she did not think of her father and the tragedy that had come into her life.

She remembered Tim Evans passing around that old newspaper.

It had been a dreary, lonely time, that five years. She had been afraid to make friends among her fellow office workers. Afraid of the things they must be thinking of her when they—found out. The memory of the whispers and curt looks, and the back-fence gossip of Bridgewater was etched too deeply into her young mind to allow her to risk any further hurt. And the "young man" of whom her father had spoken so hopefully that awful day at the prison did not materialize.

Two or three of the boys at the office noticed her, to be sure. She was too vivid, with her flying brown halo of curls, and the solemn depth to her blue eyes, not to pique the curiosity of every young man with whom she came in contact. But the memory of that beast her father had killed stalked her in every pair of masculine eyes into which she looked.

HE had been friendly and smiling, too, at first. He had joked with her, and called her "Baby" in a husky, teasing voice, the way Jack Foster, the lanky clerk here at Admore's, tried to do. And he had asked her many a time to go to the movies with him back in Bridgewater just as respectfully as did Tim Evans from the office sales department here in the city. And then he had turned—beastly! And it had cost him his life, and her father his freedom. No, there was no trust left in her for any man!

So that it came to her with a little shock as she sat, now, before the hotel mirror, that she hadn't felt that way about Jim Claridge. Was it, perhaps, because she had been so terribly up against it when he had come upon her, that there was no room for mistrust, or was it because he had been so sympathetic about her father?

She still remembered, with a sick feeling, the day, only six months' after she had come to Ardmore's, when she had come upon Tim Evans passing around an old newspaper with the account of her father's trial on its front page. He had reddened when she saw it, and had tried to assure her that it did not matter.

But after that there had been a new boldness in his eyes when he looked at her, and a new familiarity in his voice when he almost demanded that she go out with him It had been necessary to quit speaking to him to keep him in his place, and after that there had spread over the whole office the same whispers and smiles and averted faces that had been her lot in Bridgewater

Suppose it had been Tim Evans who had come upon her in the park tonight? The thought sent a shiver down her back and made her draw her worn dressing gown tighter about her shoulders He would not have given her a meal and rented her this room, and pressed money into her hand without asking for his—reward' Neither would Jack Foster, the Ardmore clerk. He had been even worse than Tim! Old Stephen Ardmore himself was the only man she could have trusted as she was trusting this—Jim. Old Stephen, who was dead now, almost a year. She wouldn't have believed that any young man could be so disinterested.

For a long time she sat there staring at her own somber, blue-eyed reflection, a wave of perplexing doubts gripping her. Perhaps, after all, he'd expect her to—pay. Maybe tomorrow. This kindness might be only a new kind of approach. Why should any man spend his money on a strange girl? How could he know she was telling the truth? Perhaps he thought she would never find work, and was only sitting back, waiting. . . .

"No!" she told herself solemnly, at last. "He's got eyes like Tiny. He couldn't be anything but straight. I can trust him. I've got to trust him. I can't go back to the park!"

After she had turned off the light and stretched out on the lumpy bed, she kept saying it over and over to herself . . . I've got to trust him . . . I can't go back to the park.

With that refrain running through her mind, she fell asleep finally, and dreamed that she was back home in the old days when she had Tiny, the spaniel, to love her—those terrible days when her father had first gone away and there was nobody left in the world who really cared what became of her. Only in her dream, the spaniel's name seemed to have changed, somehow, from Tiny to Jim. And he had grown, miraculously, into a tall, sun-burned young man, with kind eyes!

5 VOLUMES FOR LENTEN READING HEAD BOOKLIST

Books With Religious Theme Among Latest Additions at City Library.

In recognition of the beginning of Lent the Mansfield Public library has added five new volumes of religious theme and import to its circulation shelves.

"Through Lands of the Bible" by Henry V. Morton, is the result of the author's pilgrimage from the Euphrates to the Nile, and into Sinai, to tell the story of the Christian life of the Near East. "The Contemporary Christ" by Richard Roberts provides inspiring and thought provoking reading on subjects of prayer and worship, and their places in the Protestant church today.

"The Bible Comes Alive" by Sir Charles Marston tells how the trend of known and observed facts continue to confirm the stories of the Old Testament. It also shows the nature of the outside testimony supplied by the science of archaeology.

The other two books are "Once —In Palestine," which meditates on the life of Christ and written by Lucille Borden; and "A Digest of The Bible," a condensed version for easy reading, arranged and edited by Paul V. Ross.

Edna Ferber's Autobiography.

An unusual but readable autobiography is that of Edna Ferber in her recently published "A Peculiar Treasure." She tells the story of her own people, a Jewish family in America during the past half century.

Two books about Saint Germain, the mystic, have been given to the library this week. They are "Unveiled Mysteries" and "The Magic Presence" by Guy N. Ballard.

Other non-fiction this week includes:

"Speaking of Change" by Filene; "Labor Laws in Action," Andrews; "This Is Democracy," Childs; "Practicing Law: When, Where, How," Quindry; "Public Service in Great Britain," Stout; "Architectural Drawing and Detailing," Dalzell and McKenney; "Charlatanry of the Learned," Mencken; "Frontiers of Enchantment; Leigh, "Pedlar's Progress: The Life of Bronson Alcott," Shepard; "Honourable Company," MacKay.

"The Long Lane" by Phil Strong is the story of a vigorous Iowa family that lived beyond "the long lane." Kenneth Brubaker, a boy in his 'teens, experiences heartbreak when his mother runs away with his uncle Merritt, but he and his father are courageous enough to face reality and make a new life for themselves. In its depiction of the thoughts and actions of a boy growing into manhood the novel succeeds well.

A modern novel using the theme of Aristophanes' "Lysistrata" is "The Impregnable Woman" by Eric Linklater. In the early forties of this century, when all the nations are at war, the women of Britain, led by Lady Lysistrate Scrymgeour, storm the Castle of Edinburgh whence the British government has moved. They declare a love strike for the duration of the war.

"Reap The Whirlwind" by Edith Roberts is a story of young revolutionary leaders in the Balkans. The book paints a vivid picture of poverty and tyranny, with the idealism of young Peter Montich, a Serbian, fighting recklessly against them.

Other fiction includes "Appointment With Death," Christie; "Mr. Cinderella," Stout; "Great Game," Bailey; "Knights of the Range," Grey; "Signing Off," McIntyre.

O. S. R. GUESTS

Six Senior High Students to Entertain Inmates Sunday.

Six Senior high school students will present the monthly program for inmates of the Mansfield reformatory in the institution chapel.

Two performances will be given, on in the morning and the other in the afternoon, with each student presenting two numbers on each program. Those who will take part are Dale Bechtel, violin; Richard Sparks, piano, and Wanda Hess, Robert Early, Willis Wygant and Javetta Bookmyer, vocalists.

The students willl be guests of the institution at noon for dinner. A. L. Derr, director of vocal music at the school, is in charge of the program.

A musical program by the Le-Petit string ensemble was presented in the school auditorium this morning as the schools weekly assembly. Members of the ensemble are from the Chicago Civic Symphony. The program was another in a series furnished by the school assembly service.

Cherry Pie Champ

In a national competition held in Chicago, Ruby Hudson, 16, of Smithon, Mo., was declared winner of the national cherry pie sweepstakes. For her pie, which had a crispy, brown crust and cherry filling thickened with tapioca, Miss Hudson won $100 and a trip to the White House in Washington.

EEL BUSINESS CLOSING DOWN

End of Stores Recalls Plague of 1665 in England.

LONDON—(AP)—A five-centuries old Dutch eel business in London has closed down, and two Dutch "eel schuyts" moored at London bridge have been sold and put to other uses.

The business commenced around the year 1412. Tradition said that during the plague of 1665 the Dutch, at great personal risk, continued to bring eels to London to sell to the stricken population.

In recognition of their services, it was said they received a charter conferring the right of free moorings for their boats for all time.

By OSCAR RUHL, News-Journal Sports Editor.

THE selection of Damon (Buzz) Wetzel as business manager of the city's new entry in the Ohio State league has met with popular approval in Mansfield baseball ranks.

Son of H. B. Wetzel, president of the Springfield club in the Mid-Atlantic league and director of the Cleveland Indians' farm system, the new business manager will take over his new duties in March.

Wetzel.

While without practical baseball experience, Wetzel, still on the sunny side of 30, was reared in a diamond atmosphere. His father has been connected with the sport as player, manager and executive since youth, and it is only natural to suspect that young Damon's association with his dad has given him a background that no other inexperienced person that might have been selected could possibly possess.

Young Wetzel has participated in athletes ever since he was "knee high to a grasshopper," according to his famous dad, but he has been more inclined toward football than the diamond sport.

"Buzz" has played baseball as an amateur, but never took the game as seriously as football, much to the disappointment of his father. While never an All-American, Wetzel's deeds on the gridiron as a member of the late Sam Willaman's teams at Ohio State are well known to Mansfielders.

Following his graduation from Ohio State, Wetzel organized the Cleveland Rams, who are now members of the National professional league. The experience he absorbed as organizer and business manager of the Cleveland football team should fit him for his new post in Mansfield.

As baseball is a business which must be operated on a business-like basis, the matter of promotion and organization is important, and Wetzel's experience should make him a valuable asset to the club, which, incidentally, will be an affiliate of the Cleveland Indians.

Norman Cohen of Toledo, who owns the Mansfield franchise, has great respect for the judgment of Wetzel, who, on the advice of his dad, plans to make baseball his career, and he will be in complete charge of the Mansfield business offices. Cohen's law practice will not permit him to spend more than a minimum amount of time in the city.

The next major appointment to be made by Cohen will be the field manager. Cohen has received a number of applications for the job, including one from Dewey Stover, who piloted the city's 1937 Ohio State league champions, but he will delay filling the post until he has had an opportunity to interview the applicants.

Cohen expects to be able to announce the selection of a playing pilot within the next few weeks, though.

Ohio State League Schedule Favors Mansfield—

THE new Ohio State league schedule released this week gives the Mansfield club its share of attractive dates. In addition to being alloted the opening day, Mansfield has been given the first Sunday at home. These are the two choice dates on any baseball schedule.

Cohen is also fortunate that these two attractive dates bring the city's chief baseball rivals to the Fairground, which has been leased as the home park for the Mansfield club. Tiffin, with which Mansfield teams have been involved in a rivalry for many years, comes to the Fairground for the opener Wednesday, May 3, and Fremont, one of Mansfield's bitter rivals in 1937, invades the city on the first Sunday.

Mansfield's end of the schedule includes 10 Sunday appearances, with each rival playing in the city twice during the season on Sundays. Mansfield will make nine Sunday out-of-town appearances.

Mansfield was given the slight edge in home Sunday dates because it has been alloted only one holiday. Fremont will be met in the home park on Memorial day. Mansfield is scheduled at Fostoria on July 4th and Fremont will be the club's host on Labor day. Mansfield was scheduled out of the city on Independence Day at the request of Cohen because of the celebration staged annually by city parks at the Fairground.

As more games will be played in the league this year than ever before, 130 to be exact, the Saturday and Monday off-days have been eliminated. The scheduled Sunday double-headers have also been taken off the schedule, but the Sabbath Day bargain bills will not be entirely eliminated by Cohen as he plans to make synthetic Sunday twin-bills from postponed games, which accumulate during the course of any season. This practice will almost be necessary as it is rather difficult to stage double-headers under lights at night when all week day games, except Saturday's, will be played.

Only the Sunday and Saturday games will be played in the afternoons, and the Saturday tilts may be shifted under the arcs later in the season if they fail to attract spectators, Cohen has declared.

The playing time of holiday games will be determined by the home clubs, with the Mansfield Memorial Day engagements likely afternoon affairs.

Cram Re-appointed District Softball Commissioner

DON D. CRAM, Y. M. C. A. physical director, has been re-appointed as softball commissioner for District No. 13, it was announced this week by the Ohio amateur softball association.

Cram, who staged the district amateur tournament in Mansfield last year, will have charge of eight counties, two more than he had last season. The counties are Richland, Ashland, Marion, Knox Crawford, Wyandot, Seneca and Morrow.

The district is one of the largest in the state, Cram stated today and county commissioners are expected to be named within a few days.

Teams in the Ohio amateur softball association must get a team charter from the district commissioner, Cram said. This permits them to play other chartered teams and in chartered tournaments.

The Ohio association and the National association are affiliated with the National Amateur Athletic union and the rules must correspond with the national union.

All softball teams must be chartered and play only in sanctioned tournaments and players participating in unchartered tournaments are ineligible for participation in the state tournament.

Anyone wishing to stage softball tournaments must ask for a sanction from the district commissioner.

With the adding of Wyandot and Seneca counties to this district the site for the 1939 tournament has not been announced. Last year the tournament was held in Mansfield and won by the Beeber-Ross team.

Inmates Wallop Galion Club

The Ohio State reformatory outfit handed the Bertram Confectionery quintet of Galion a 48 to 24 drubbing on the reformatory court last night.

With Murphy, who tallied 10 points, leading the way, the inmates piled up a commanding lead in the opening half to coast to their triumph.

The inmates led, 10 to 3, in the first period, 23 to 12 at the half and 39 to 18 at the end of the third stanza.

Tygers Face Canton In Final Tilt Tonight

The task of accomplishing a feat never before marked up by a Mansfield high cage team faces Coach Russ Murphy's Tygers tonight when they make their final appearance of the regular season on the Senior high hardwood.

That job will be to chalk up a victory over the strong Canton McKinley Bulldogs who invade the Tygers' lair for what looms as one of the best contests of the season.

Second Game This Week.

This evening's tussle will be the second for the Tygers this week. They dropped a thrilling 24-23 overtime decision to Massillon high Tuesday night.

Coach Murphy today reported his squad in fine shape for the Canton melee, and expects his athletes to turn in one of their finest performances of the year.

The Tygers will be out for revenge. Early this year they dropped a tilt to the visitors, but believe they can avenge the setback on their own floor.

Mansfield had trouble in getting its smooth-working attack to clicking against the Bulldogs at Canton. But once it did start functioning in the final period, McKinley had trouble in holding onto the lead.

Mansfield's main problem tonight will be to halt Triner, star guard and Hontas, towering forward, who were the main cogs in Canton's earlier victory.

Canton, in marking up its win over the Tygers, hopped off to a commanding lead in the first period, and Mansfield was unable to overcome that early advantage. And tonight the Tygers intend to gain the lead before McKinley can get going.

Scott, Smith to Start.

Murphy announced today that Jack Dugger and Tommy Scott will get the call at the forward berths, with Dave Shelley at the pivot post, and Jack Lyons and Ike Smith at the guards.

Canton will probably lineup with Hontas and Inman at forwards, Roman, at center, and Sheil and Triner at the guards.

A preliminary contest between the reserve teams of the two schools will open the activities.

RAEMELTON Farms, a team that finished in the opening bracket in the opening round race of the Senior A league, today boasted of a triumph over the first round champions and held a share of first place in the current race.

Playing inspired play, the Farm club broke loose in the opening frame to hand the touted Rex Billiards a 26 to 16 setback in the feature game at the Friendly House last night. It was the first defeat of the second round for the Billiards.

Share 1st Place.

The triumph gave the Raemelton five a share of the lead along with the Cuemen and Musille Cigars. All three have suffered one defeat this round.

A third-period rally enabled the Cigars to overcome a 29-25 lead, and defeat the Miller Dairys, 34 to 32, in a nip-and-tuck battle. In the other game, the Blue Goose Sohioans topped the Augustine Canfield Stations, 45 to 39.

The Farm team, with J. Hardin, K. Hardin and Zacharis setting the pace, hopped into the lead in the initial period, and successfully fought off every Billiard threat. All three players collected eight points apiece.

Raemelton led, 5-1, in the first period, 11-6 at the half, and, 18 to 8, at the end of the third frame.

Cigars Trail at Half.

The Cigars, led by Bajai, who tallied 11 points, found themselves trailing, 16 to 12, at the intermission, matched the Dairys in the third and then went on a scoring spree in the final session to win.

Blue Goose, with Kenny Lockhart, whose 14 points enabled him to set the individual tempo for the evening, showing the way, grabbed the lead in the opening minutes and was never headed

Scots Tally 14th Victory

Defeat Heidelberg, 50-44, in Conference Tussle.

(By Associated Press)

They may as well prepare to "pipe the Haggis" in honor of the Wooster Scots.

The canny Wooster cage quintet rang up its 14th Ohio conference victory last night, trouncing the Student Princes of Heiledberg, 50 to 44.

They kept their loop record unsullied by staging a devastating second half attack against the regal basketeers from Tiffin. The Princes held a 23-21 lead at the intermission.

Henderson, a guard, whipped 19 points through the Wooster net. Forward Smith had an even dozen.

As Ashland romped to a 46 to 35 win over Kenyon, the Eagles' ace guard, Richcreek, corralled 18 points to hike his season's individual total to 269—a record for the college. The previous Ashland mark was 261, set by Philip Lersch in the 1927-28 season.

Kenyon was in front 19-18 at the half, but Ashlands scoring machine found its stride after the rest period.

Women Wrestlers Clash In Title Bout at Armory Tonight

ONE of the most unusual wrestling cards of the season will be offered in the Armory tonight. It is headlined by the meeting of Miss Mildred Burke Kansas City, and Babe Myers, St. Paul, who will vie for the women's lightweight title.

Matchmaker Tim Nolan confesses that he signed the Whitey Whalberg-Firo Rinaldi contest as the nominal feature. "These women," he confided yesterday, "are taking the play away from the main event and I believe the fans are more interested than at any time during the season. Wahlberg and Rinaldi will have the choice spot on the bill, but you can bet that Miss Burke will get her share of the attention."

If Miss Myers has her way, the attention Miss Burke receives will not necessarily be confined to the onlookers. Rumors state that Milly has had things her own way among the lady grapplers long enough and that Miss Myers is just the parcel of dynamite to unseat her from the title perch. The two tangle in a one hour-limit affair.

If you're interested in masculine wrestling, which, if reports are true, may become a thing of the past in the light of the fair sex's invasion, there are a couple of pretty fair contests on the program. Firo Rinaldi is making his first start in the midwest and may prove a tartar for the popular Whalberg.

There has been a slight change in the opener. Tim Nolan signed the Masked Marvel late yesterday and he will go against Ernie Dugan. Lon Chaney, originally slated to be Dugan's foe, sustained an arm injury in the gymnasium and was forced to cancel. Opening bout starts at 8:30.

Half this amount also will be contributed by the Helsingfors Municipality, bringing the estimated cost of the games to $7,500,000.

THE Mansfield Printing keglers climbed into a tie for first place in the Commercial B league with the Office Cafe team in the weekly games at the Meder alleys last night.

Led by Messimer, who shot a 567, the Printers came in with a 2728 total to take three games from the Kochheiser Sports, while the Cafe outfit was having trouble annexing a pair of games from the Ohio Public Service club.

The Satterlee Restaurants ran into a barrier in attempting to remain in the crow's nest by dropping three games to the Mansfield Rug and Linoleum representatives, paced by Diamond's 609.

Pilot, whose 612 total was high for the evening, led the Yuncker Sports as they swept its series over the Shelby Cycle club. The Sports piled up a 2779 total for team honors. In the other matches, the Ringside Cafes won a pair of games from the Heilman Grocers, and Burghardts took three from the Met's Auto Supplies.

Donna Schuster Tops Women Keglers.

Donna Schuster of the Harvey Shoes, collected a 248 game and a 628 total to set the pace in the Women's bowling league at the Meder alleys last night. She opened with a 220 and added a 160 before hitting her high game.

Willis Hits 734 In Doubles Loop.

Freddie Willis smacked the uprights for a huge 734 total to annex individual honors in the Doubles league at the Meder Recreation alleys Wednesday night.

Willis, bowling with N. Swank, opened his spectacular string with a nifty 279, added a 220 in the middle frame, and then finished with a 235 as he and Swank, who had a 634, copped team scoring honors with a 1368 total.

Tony Beats Abe In Three Rounds

MIAMI—(U.P.)—Tony Galento, whose freakish fighting has been exploited almost to the limit, pointed proudly today to his knockout over Abe Feldman and bellowed another challenge to Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis.

But that was a matter for Promoter Mike Jacobs to decide, and Mike was one of the disappointing crowd of 8,432 in Burdine stadium last night which saw Galento in action. The third round had begun and Feldman had been on the floor six times before Referee Dave Miller of Chicago decided the thing had gone long enough.

Bushnell Hands Bowman Club Second Defeat

Scores 19 to 11 Victory Over Leaders in Grade School League.

GRADE SCHOOL LEAGUE

	W.	L.
Bowman	20	2
Bushnell	18	4
Hedges	16	6
Newman	12	10
West Fifth	11	10
Woodland	11	10
Brinkerhoff	8	14
Western	5	17
Prospect	4	18
Carpenter	4	18

BASKETBALL representatives of this Bushnell school seem to have the "jinx" sign over the pace-setting Bowman Street school team in the Grade School league.

For the Bushnell outfit clashed with the leaders in yesterday's games at Mansfield high and emerged with a well-deserved, 19 to 10, decision. It was Bowman's second defeat of the season, and both have been scored by the Bushnell cagers. The win enabled Bushnell to climb within two games of the leaders.

While the leaders were absorbing their defeat, Hedges strengthened its grip in third place by edging Western, 16 to 11, Brinkerhoff topped Prospect, 16 to 11, Newman eked out a 13 to 11 win over West Fifth, and Woodland, limiting Carpenter to a pair of free throws, chalked up a 9 to 2 victory.

With Junior Brooks sparking the attack, Bushnell hopped into the lead in the early minutes of the initial period and was never headed. Bushnell led, 7 to 4, in the opening period, 10 to 7 at the half, and 16 to 8 at the end of the third stanza.

Mercer collected 10 points as Brinkerhoff dusted off Prospect. His total gave him individual scoring honors for the day. Brinkerhoff was leading, 12 to 5, at halftime.

Hedges whitewashed Western in the first frame to gain an advantage it protected to the final gun. The winners held a 5-4 lead at the rest period.

Schmidt tallied the two foul shots to save Carpenter from being whitewashed.

Bulldogs, Lucas Are Favorites

Butler Faces Shiloh Club; Bellville Meets Lucas.

COACH BOB BURGETT'S defending championship Butler high combine faces another dangerous obstacle when it returns to action in the semi-finals of the Richland county tournament at Senior high at 1:30 p. m. Saturday.

The Bulldogs, who had trouble in topping Union high in the second round games, face the touted Shiloh high aggregation, conquerors of Madison's Rams, in the opening contest of the afternoon's program.

Lucas Favored.

Lucas high, one of the favorites in the annual tourney, will attempt to advance to the finals in the second tussle by turning back the fast-improving Bellville high team, which Thursday upset Ontario.

The Drummer Boys and Coach Royd Hodges' surprising quintet may not emerge with victories, but can be depended upon to give their opponents a difficult test.

Butler will probably have the toughest task, for it faces the high-scoring Shiloh club without the services of two regulars. They are Kenny Miller, one of the team's leading scorers, and Wilson. Both have severe colds, and will not be permitted to play.

The absence of these two mainstays from the lineup handicaps the team's passing attack. Miller, in addition to being a leading scorer, is also a clever ball handler.

Shiloh toppled Madison with one of its star guards on the sidelines. He is Hamman, and Coach Raymond Richards hopes the lad will be ready for service Saturday.

Butler Maps Defense.

Butler was busy today mapping a defense Coach Burgett hopes will stop Bob Moser, who was a big factor in dumping the Rams. If the Bulldogs can stop his brilliant side-court shots they have an even chance of coming through on the long end of the score.

Lucas' height is expected to play an important part in its battle with Bellville. The Bluejays possess a fast-breaking attack, but will have a job on its hands in trying to retrieve the rebounds from the lanky Lucas outfit. Bellville, who holds a county league decision over Lucas, will enter the affray as underdogs, but seems to play its best brand of ball in that role.

A foul shooting contest will be held immediately after the second semi-final game.

HONOLULU—(U.P.)—When you say luau you've really said a mouthful.

Several mouthfuls, in fact, because luau is Hawaiian for feast and when an islander sits down under the spreading banyan tree to eat he plays no favorites.

I was asked to a luau yesterday and we gathered in an outdoor dining room only slightly smaller than the Yankee stadium and surrounded by approximately the same number of servants as there are members in the American Legion, each of whom was in charge of a separate dish.

The first serious course at a luau is fish. Not one fish, or three fish, or even 15 fish, but an entire aquarium.

Of the fish served, I liked the octopus and lomilomi salmon best. I had always thought of an octopus as something dangerous to pearl divers, but stewed in cocoanut milk it tastes much like a cloud looks, only better. Lomilomi salmon combines all the best features of money from home, and the first ride on a ferris wheel.

All the time a luau guest is working through the appetizers and fish a regiment of chefs is roasting pigs in underground ovens. The ovens are about the size of the entrance to the Holland tunnel and hotter than the Fourth of July in purgatory. Each pig is filled with blistering hot stones, packed into the earth in a bouquet of sweet potatoes and bananas, wrapped in ti leaves and a great burlap coat, and allowed to roast until just falling apart.

There is no describing the taste of the pig when, with a fine ceremony, it is brought out. Somewhere in the world there may be sweeter meat, but I doubt it.

After you have made a pig of yourself over your pig, the vegetables start arriving. There are all the well-known vegetables, plus an exotic assortment that would feel perfectly at home on a menu written in Sanskrit.

The beverage served at the luaus is okolehao, a local article that goes down so smoothly that the first time you realize you have had any of it is when you find yourself sitting in the top of a tree betting even money that you can fly, just as you are, and without any mechanical aid whatsoever. The funny thing is that once in a while you win your bets.

Say, what has all this got to do with sports?

Books Discussing Institute Topics Added By Library

New books on subjects dealing with the weekly lectures of the Institute of International Understanding were added this week to the Mansfield Library's shelf of books on world affairs.

The shelf will be supplemented each week with volumes on topics of the Monday lectures. The new group includes:

"Conscript Europe" by Randolph Leigh explains the significance of conscription in the present European situation. The author is an authority on conditions in Italy, Germany, France and England since the rise of the dictators.

"Twenty Years' Armistice, 1918-1938" by William Orton gives a rapid view of the years since the World War. The author surveys these two decades from the depth of our international economic and political distress and points out our errors.

"Europe Re-Housed" by Elizabeth Denby is the outcome of eight years' practical experience of slum clearance and rehousing in London. The author studied the methods used by European countries in meeting the housing problem.

Other books in this group are: "Rape of Palestine" by Ziff; "Problem of Peaceful Change in the Pacific," Angus; "Turbulent Years," Marcosson; "This Peace," Mann; "Pity the Persecutor," Gordon; and "The Church Can Save The World," Shoemaker.

The library also has borrowed 50 books from the Lorain Public library which are published in Hungarian language, and which will be available for circulation.

WORLD'S BEST WHITE WYANDOTTES
WE ship thousands of chicks to every State in the Union each year and have several hundred testimonial letters in our files from customers in all parts of the country telling of wonderful results our chicks have produced. Dr. K. F. Weller, D. D. S., Wilkinsburg, Pa. writes, "The White Wyandottes I have of your breeding on my farm have done so well and please us so much we are building another hen house and when completed want to get more of your stock." Mr. C. V. Easterwood, Memphis, Tenn. "Have experimented for the last 6 years with different breeds and have decided to standardize on your White Wyandottes. I have hens from chicks purchased from you in 1937 and they have outlaid Rocks, Buff Minorcas, and AAA White Leghorns, two to one. All receiving the same feed and care, and when you cook one you really have a dish full of chicken." Mr. Ralph Van Tuyl Elmira N. Y. says "Have had your chicks twice before As to Wyandottes you have the ONLY Strain." Why not give us an order for chicks that really have good sound breeding back of them for 38 years instead of getting just ordinary hatchery chicks. Our prices are about the same as hatchery chicks. BLONDIE—It's Those Detective Stories She's Been Reading! By CHIC YOUNG

AW-W-W- I CAN'T KEEP A THING AROUND THIS HOUSE-- EVERYTHING OF MINE DISAPPEARS
BLONDIE, I HID SOME STAMPS IN A VASE BEHIND THE BOOK CASE, SO I'D HAVE THEM WHEN I NEEDED THEM
I FOUND THE STAMPS, DEAR, AND USED THEM
HOW DO YOU EVER FIND THEM THERE? THAT'S THE LAST PLACE IN THIS HOUSE I THOUGHT YOU'D LOOK
THAT'S WHAT I THOUGHT YOU'D THINK SO I LOOKED THERE FIRST

PAM—Clare Still Missing! By A. W. Browerton

LADY, YOU LOOK STUNNING! I WOULD HAVE WORN MY TUCK, BUT I DIDN'T THINK IT'D LOOK SO HOT GETTING OFF THE PLANE IN THE MORNING!
LISTEN, DAVID - LET'S NOT GO JUST YET - I - THAT IS, CLARE HASN'T COME IN YET, AND - I THINK SHE'D LIKE TO SEE YOU, 'FORE YOU GO!
OH, CLARE IS A DARLING GIRL - I JUST LOVE HER, DAVID!
SOME TIME LATER! - (PAM HAS GROWN INCREASINGLY ALARMED)
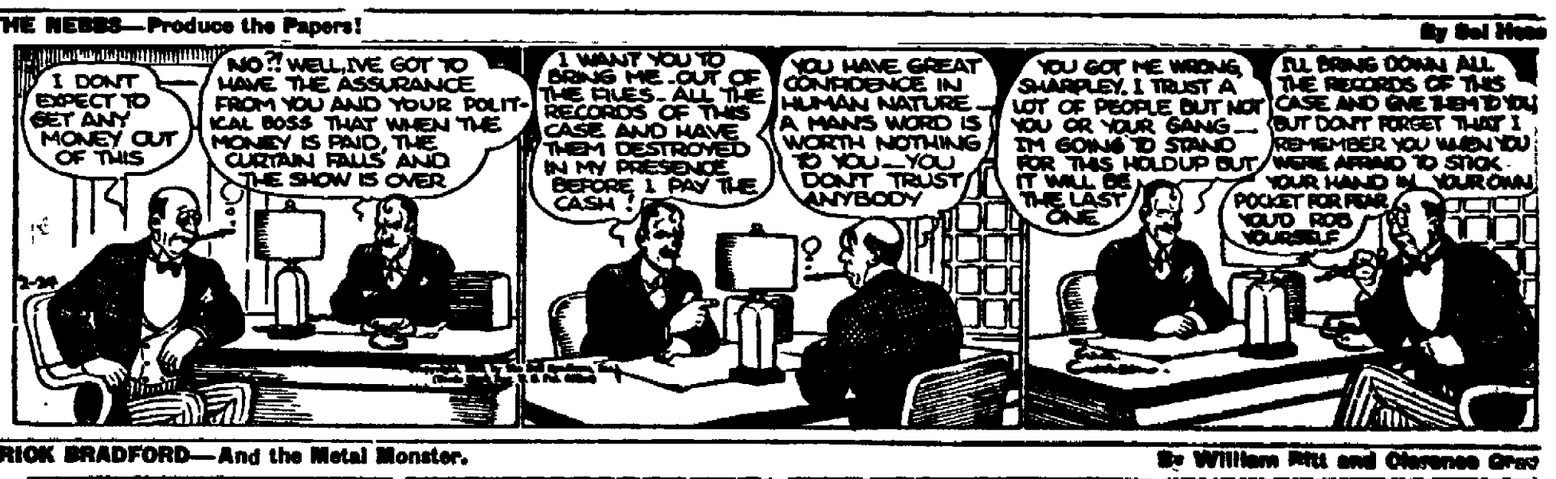
LET'S JUST WAIT - A FEW MINUTES LONGER!
AND, BY NOW, DAVID HAS NOTICED PAM'S NERVOUSNESS!

THE NEBBS—Produce the Papers! By Sol Hess



I DON'T EXPECT TO GET ANY MONEY OUT OF THIS
NO?! WELL, I'VE GOT TO HAVE THE ASSURANCE FROM YOU AND YOUR POLITICAL BOSS THAT WHEN THE MONEY IS PAID, THE CURTAIN FALLS AND THE SHOW IS OVER
I WANT YOU TO BRING ME - OUT OF THE RUES - ALL THE RECORDS OF THIS CASE AND HAVE THEM DESTROYED IN MY PRESENCE BEFORE I PAY THE CASH!
YOU HAVE GREAT CONFIDENCE IN HUMAN NATURE - A MAN'S WORD IS WORTH NOTHING TO YOU - YOU DON'T TRUST ANYBODY
YOU GOT ME WRONG, SHARPLEY. I TRUST A LOT OF PEOPLE BUT NOT YOU OR YOUR GANG - I'M GOING TO STAND FOR THIS HOLDUP BUT IT WILL BE THE LAST ONE
I'LL BRING DOWN ALL THE RECORDS OF THIS CASE AND GIVE THEM TO YOU, BUT DON'T FORGET THAT I REMEMBER YOU WHEN YOU WERE AFRAID TO STICK YOUR HAND IN YOUR OWN POCKET FOR FEAR YOU'D ROB YOURSELF

OH - MAGGIE - WHERE IS ME SHOT-GUN?

NOTICE!

Because, through no fault of its own, The News-Journal has been printing the comic strip "Tailspin Tommy" ahead of the regular release dates, appearance of the feature has been temporarily suspended.

However, the comic strip has not been discontinued.

It will reappear with no interruption in the continuity of the story on Saturday, Feb. 25, in the week-end green tabloid, in which it will appear thereafter.

The new and popular strip, "Blondie," now appears on this page daily.

HOPKINS' TALK TONIGHT BUOYS STOCK MARKET

Leading Issues Show Gains In Modest Trading; Philip Morris Hits New High.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—Further modest buying seeped into the stock market today and leading issues advanced fractions to a point.

Brokers credited the better performance of the list partly to expectations Secretary of Commerce Hopkins tonight would make another friendly administration gesture toward industry.

Prominent stocks on the upside included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, General Motors, U. S. Rubber, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Consolidated Edison and Westinghouse. Philip Morris hit a new 1938-39 top following action of directors in voting a $2 extra dividend.

Bonds and commodities generally exhibited improvement. European markets were better all around.

Market observers derived a little cheer from the Dun & Bradstreet survey which disclosed retail spending this week, while exhibiting spotty tendencies, topped the like period last year, for the country as a whole, by 1 to 4 per cent.

Studied were the federal reserve figures showing a continued heavy flow of gold from Europe and, for the second consecutive week, a modest expansion in commercial lending.

DIES AT AGE 84

Mrs. M'Clelland Had Lived in City for 45 Years.

Mrs. Sarah Jane McClelland, 84, died Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John E. Angle, 66 Vennum avenue, following a brief illness.

Born Sept. 29, 1854, in Dalton, O., Mrs. McClelland came to Mansfield 45 years ago. She was a member of the First Presbyterian church. Her husband, Joseph, and a son, William H., preceded her in death.

Surviving are a son, James, of Cleveland, one daughter, Mrs. Angle, and seven grandchildren. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 3 p. m. Saturday with Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

PERSONAL TAX PERIOD NEARING

Collection Starts Wednesday, Continues Through April 1.

Collection of tax on personal property will begin Wednesday and continue to April 1, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said today.

Tax blanks which must be filed before or when the tax is paid are available at any bank in the county or at the auditor's office, Wolfe said.

The tax is collected on stocks and securities, office and factory equipment, jewelry and other personal property not classified as real estate.

The tax in the county last year amounted to slightly more than $150,000, and Treasurer John E. Kolb said it would be about the same this year.

COUNTY SHARES IN STATE-WIDE ROAD PROGRAM

Routes Here Included in Plan to Get Dirt Highways 'Out of the Mud.'

Richland county will share in a huge WPA project which will be launched this spring to get the state-maintained roads "out of the mud," state highway officials announced today.

The program, which will include improvement of 5,000 miles of unimproved, dirt roads, will cost millions of dollars, with federal funds financing the major part of the program.

Most of the work will be done on routes which were recently added to the state highway system, and improvement of the Shelby-Johnsville road (route 314) already has been started in Springfield and Troy townships.

Few Miles Unimproved Here.

Richland county's share of the program will be smaller than most counties will receive, it was believed, because only a few miles of state highways in this county are unimproved.

After completion of the project in Springfield and Troy townships, the only unimproved state highway in the county will be a two-mile section of route 95 in Worthington township, County Engineer Howard C. Sword said. Other sections of route 95 are surfaced thinly with gravel, however, and probably will be included in the statewide program.

Kelley's Report Shows Cash On Hand $3,000 More Than Jan. 1.

A monthly report forwarded to city council today by City Auditor Paul L. Kelley showed that the city of Mansfield had a cash balance of $103,955.24 on deposit Feb. 23. This is $3,000 more than the balance on hand Jan. 1, Kelley said.

The total includes $1,760 in the general fund, $53,492 in the waterworks fund, $1,823 in the garbage fund, $15,289 in the sanitary sewer fund, and $31,589 in the special fund.

Kelley pointed out that both the waterworks and sanitary sewer funds showed substantial balances due to recent collections.

REVEALS PORTS WAS SHORT FOR 'SEVERAL YEARS'

Ports repaid the $4,259.31 last Monday.

The bonding company which was surety for Ports when he became clerk, paid $3,000 of the shortage and the balance was paid by Ports.

Zook's report expressly pointed out that neither Judge Kalbfleisch, who appointed Ports, nor deputies in the clerk's office, were at all involved in the shortage.

'Only One Involved'—Ports.

Zook said that under direct questioning to whether he was the only person involved in the shortage, Ports replied: "Yes, I am the only one and I don't want anyone else to be suspected. I took every dollar that is missing."

It was stated that during an earlier questioning as to his reason for such "unwarranted procedure," Ports answered:

"I had to have this money to pay bills. I was in a jam. I hoped I would get a break and intended to put it back."

Questioned further, the report said, as to when he had started to take money from the cash drawer, Ports replied, "several years ago."

In answer to the question of how he had been able to have sufficient funds on hand at the time of the former audit (ending Aug. 31, 1937) to cover his withdrawals if he had followed this procedure, the examiner reported Ports said:

"I was able to borrow enough money to cover up any shortage before the examiner arrived and when he completed the audit I paid the loan back from the cash drawer."

Cites Discrepancies.

Of the $4,259 shortage, there was a discrepancy of $3,966 between recorded collections and bank deposits, Zook's report said. He also reported finding unrecorded collections of $233 in the criminal division and unrecorded collection of $59 in the civil branch.

Zook pointed out that the unrecorded collections "that were withheld by the clerk were uncovered as the result of detailed investigations."

Zook wrote that he had questioned Ports concerning unrecorded collections, reminding him of his former assertion that he had entered all collections made on his records.

He quoted Ports as saying:

"I don't know how it happened unless it was just carelessness on my part. I do remember most of the cases now that you have brought them to my attention and I do know that they were paid. Some of the criminal fines that were paid by check I held up until the check cleared the bank and then forgot to enter them on the cash book."

The examiner criticized Ports' "unsatisfactory manner" in keeping his records but commended other records kept by Judge Kalbfleisch and deputy clerks in the office.

"It was readily apparent that no attempt had been made to balance the several accounts established for the three divisions of the court," Zook said, in referring to Ports' records.

"A cash control record was not kept and deposits were not made in the several bank accounts until large amounts of collections had accumulated," the examiner reported.

He also pointed out that disbursements from the court bank accounts due to various taxing subdivisions and persons authorized to receive the money were not made as required by law.

Fails to Make Entries.

"Proper entries of credits were not made on the criminal and civil appearance dockets in a great many cases," Zook wrote, "and 'security deposits' totaling hundreds of dollars on civil cases which had been settled were allowed to remain unapplied, such amounts being due the city as court fees and refunds to persons depositing the same."

The report pointed out that Ports, under direct questioning by the examiner had accepted full responsibility and the entire blame for the conversion of the court funds to his own personal use.

The report pointed out the recommendations made by Zook during the progress of the audit, that proper accounting procedure be employed by the installation of a cash control system; the issuing of statements by the court to persons responsible for payment of costs due, and more frequent deposits of funds, has been immediately put into effect, he said, and assurance given that they would be strictly complied with in the future.

Alleged shortages in the accounts of the former clerk were first revealed on Jan. 10 when Judge Kalbfleisch suspended Ports for six days based on findings uncovered by Zook who was engaged in a routine audit of municipal offices.

An extension was later ordered and Ports was finally dismissed on Jan. 31 when the court asked the bureau of audit and inspection for a special report on the audit of the court records.

FOREIGN POLICY FIGHT RENEWED

as well as some naval operations. He reiterated the argument of Chairman Vinson (D., Ga.) of the naval committee that harbor improvement could not be interpreted as a slap at any nation.

Opponents contended, however, that since the island was in the midst of territory under Japanese mandate, the establishment of a seaplane base would appear to be a distinctly unfriendly act.

"If you're looking for war," said Rep. Fish (R-NY), "this is the best way to get it."

The administration's defeat on the Guam vote had its political as well as international aspects. Republicans, who had decided on their stand at a party conference, held their lines virtually intact, but about one-fourth of the Democrats broke away from their leaders.

The vote stood: Opposing the Guam project, 138 Republicans, 64 Democrats, 2 Progressives, 1 Farmer-Laborite; supporting it, 152 Democrats, 15 Republicans, 1 American Laborite.

Chairman Walsh (D-Mass.) of the senate naval committee said he believed the Guam proposal was dead. Although there was some talk the administration would attempt to revive it in the senate, Walsh's attitude — shared by other committeemen — might doom such a move.

Meanwhile the Borah-Johnson effort to write a foreign policy statement apparently was headed for innumerable difficulties, due to the wide differences of opinion among critics of the administration's course.

"Any attempt of a minority group of senators to write a foreign policy," said Chairman Pittman (D-Nev.) of the foreign relations committee, "is so contrary to our form of representative government that it would be even better to attempt, as futile as it might be, to ascertain universal public opinion."

900 HEAR CIVIC MUSIC FINALE

Music From Zimbalist's Violin Entrances Audience That Defied Blizzard.

he looked lonely and not a little sad, as though he were playing to lovely Alma Gluck, former opera star and Zimbalist's wife, who died a few months ago after 23 years of marriage.

Zimbalist played three groups and three encores. His first group appealed to the music technicians in the audience, but carried too little melody for the laymen, as well as being entirely unfamiliar. The group included "Ciaccona" by Vitali; "Romance in G Major" by Beethoven, and the "Theme and Variations" of Mozart and Schalero.

Mendelssohn's concerto in E minor (opus 64) which is played by few violinists but which is frequently included in the Zimbalist and Fritz Kreisler programs, was his second group last night. The first movement of the concerto, allegro molto appassionato, not only give the violinist opportunity to show his skill, but brings the accompanist in the picture with the development of the second theme.

Valdimir Sokoloff, nephew of the conductor of the Cleveland Symphony orchestra and permanent accompanist for Zimbalist, is a brilliant young pianist whose music is a velvet-smooth background for the violin. His work in the concerto forms an important part of the presentation.

The andante and the finale of the concerto were perhaps the first numbers of the program that gave the laymen in the audience something they could understand. It was fortunate for Zimbalist that he was so immersed in his music that he was not annoyed by the "anvil chorus" which the radiators of the auditorium kept clanging throughout these two lovely numbers, but the audience was not only aware of it, but obviously irritated. It is something that happens at every concert and play at the auditorium in the winter season.

The final group was made up of all lovely melodies and included Zimbalist's arrangement of Rubenstein's "Melody;" a Chopin waltz, the artist's own "Tango" and a group of "Gypsy Airs" by Sarasate.

Graciously, and obviously pleased at his reception, Zimbalist played three encore numbers. His playing of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Flight of a Bumble Bee" held the audience breathless until the last "zzz" note was sounded. Kreisler's arrangement of a Chopin Mazurka and "The Swan" were the other encores. As so frequently happens on a classical program, the encores found greatest favor with the audience.

Zimbalist was introduced by Rev. Grover E. Swoyer of the Civic Music association board. The artist was taken to Crestline immediately after the concert where he took a train for Buffalo. From there he was to fly to Montreal where on Saturday and Sunday nights he will be heard in concert, playing the difficult Brahms concerto.

will be distributed among chamber members and would also be forwarded to persons outside the city in answer to inquiries received almost daily for information concerning Mansfield.

Chief among the classifications listed in the survey is a comprehensive report on Mansfield jobbing interests which Williams has pointed out to be of "more than average importance."

The report shows that 80 per cent of the wholesalers operating out of Mansfield cover a trading area 55 miles in radius. This area has an estimated population of 925,000 persons and covers 23 counties.

It is also pointed out that 995 retail sales outlets operate in Richland county with an annual sales volume of $20,348,000, with an average volume of $308 per capita. Richland county's spendable income is listed at $85,692,000.

It also points out that Mansfield has an "unusually high percentage" of home ownership. This figure is listed at 60.7, with the real estate valuation placed at $51,000,000.

"The frugality of the citizens of Mansfield has made them wary of vast bond issues with the result that the indebtedness of the city is low and the community points with pride to its low tax rate of 4.87 mills," the report says.

Dictator Nations Get Sharp Warning From Britain

PUTS BRITISH BEHIND FRENCH IF WAR COMES

Foreign Secretary Indicates Italian Demands on France Constitute Major Threat.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — Great Britain has put forth one of the strongest warning she has yet made to the dictator nations of Europe.

Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, who has been mostly on the sidelines while his close friend Premier Chamberlain dictated foreign policy, used this striking phrase in a statement to the house of lords last night:

"Halt! Major road ahead."

The statement, it was felt here, was a warning to other powers not to underestimate Chamberlain's recent pledge, that in the event of war Britain would go to the defense of France.

Major War Threat.

It was interpreted also as an obvious hint to Italy that that country's thus far undefined demands upon France for colonial territory constitute Europe's major war threat.

Lord Halifax told the upper house that Britain could make no move toward mediation "unless and until both parties desire it."

"In one sense," he said, "it is a case that whatever might be the Italo-French differences they do not primarily—and I emphasize the word primarily — concern this country.

"But in another sense, they concern it immediately and closely because we have relations with France and we also are glad to have repaired our relations with Italy and are anxious to maintain them on a basis of as complete cordiality as we can."

British-French solidarity, he said, has no reservations.

He gave assurances, however, that the understanding "does not and has never been intended to constitute any menace of any sort to any third power."

Along with rumors Britain and France were make an 11th hour effort to achieve a truce in the Spanish war, there were strong indications that both countries would recognize Generalissimo Franco's regime at Burgos within a matter of days.

HUNGARY BANS NAZI PARTY

BUDAPEST—(AP)—The government undertook today to smash the Hungarists, the leading national socialist party of Hungary, and at the same time formally joined Germany, Italy and Japan in their accord against international Communism.

The Hungarian Nazi party was banned as a danger to public safety and party property was confiscated.

More than 500 persons had been arrested by early afternoon. Political police occupied a greystone apartment building in Andrassy street which had been the Nazi headquarters.

Detectives were studying the party's long membership lists. They found the names of many prominent citizens.

Police were scraping the emblem from the walls and billboards and merchants sympathetic to the Nazis were taking posters from the windows.

ORGANIZE CLUB

High School Grads Form Phalanx Fraternity at Meeting at 'Y.'

The Phalanx fraternity, a young men's club, was formed at a meeting of high school graduates last night at the Y. M. C. A. The fraternity is a 'Y' organization, and is affiliated with the national "Y" movement. Membership is open to young men between the ages of 19 and 25.

Organization of the group will be completed at another meeting to be held at the "Y" Tuesday. The charter will be closed after this meeting.

AGREE TO BUILD SPAN OVER RUN

City, County Officials Agree to Provide Funds for Touby's Run Bridge.

City and county officials agreed at a conference at the courthouse today to sponsor a WPA project for replacing a dangerous bridge over Touby's run on Bowman street, with each to share in the cost.

It was agreed to let the prosecutor and city solicitor determine to what extent the county is obligated to provide funds for the project which is inside the city limits.

County Engineer Howard C. Sword pointed out that the county has no road and bridge fund and could not finance all of the project although a state law provides that counties are obliged to build and maintain bridges on state highways within city and village limits.

Sword estimated the cost of the bridge at nearly $12,000 and said the county's share probably would be about $6,000.

The city will provide funds for the construction of approaches to the bridge and paving and sidewalks over it, according to the preliminary plan.

Representing the city at today's meetings were Mayor C. M. Hunter and Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist. They confered with Sword and county commissioners.

RITES SET FOR JOHN C. WIGGS

Galion Native to Be Buried Saturday: Was Instructor in Military Schools.

GALION—The body of John C. Wiggs, 57, of Berwyn, Ill., Chicago suburb, was brought to Galion early this morning. Funeral services will be held some time Saturday afternoon at the Snyder funeral home here, and burial will be made in Fairview cemetery. Other arrangements were being completed today. Short funeral services were held at Chicago Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Wiggs died suddenly Wednesday evening in a Chicago hospital where he had been rushed following a heart attack suffered while walking on the street.

Born here Sept. 2, 1881, Mr. Wiggs was graduated from Galion high school in 1899. He taught school in this community for several terms and while here he was active as first Lieutenant of Company L, 8th O. V. I. Nearly 30 years ago he became instructor in the Carter H. Harrison high school in Chicago where he was a teacher in the commercial department at the time of his death. After his graduation here he was graduated from Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware. Before going to Chicago he taught at Howe Military Academy at Howe, Ind., and then transferred to the Morgan Park Academy at Morgan Park, near Chicago.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Wiggs of 616 Cherry street, Galion, his widow who was the former Mary Casey of Galion; two sons and a daughter, Robert and Rae Jane, born at home, and James of Indianapolis, Ind., and a grandson.

PURCHASES CITY WATER SUPPLIES

Board Awards Contracts for Meters, Service Boxes and Liquid Chlorine.

The city board of control today awarded four contracts for various supplies to be used by the waterworks department during 1939.

The Hughes Supply company, Mansfield, was awarded the contract for 200 new water meters at $7.10 per unit. This was 30 cents higher than the lowest bid of $6.80 submitted by the Pittsburgh Equitable Meter company of Pittsburgh, Pa.

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist said the Hughes bid was selected because of the Worthington-Gaman meter which the local firm was able to furnish. He said the Worthington meter, which is now used by the city waterworks department, was found to have a low maintenance cost and that the city did not want to stock another brand of water meters because it now has five different makes in service.

The Standard Manufacturing company of Mansfield, lowest of eight bidders, was awarded the contract for supplying the city with 200 service boxes at 95 cents a unit, and 4,000 feet of copper tubing at 13.84 cents a foot.

The contract for furnishing 18,000 pounds of liquid chlorine went to the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing company, through Branyan Bros., Mansfield, at a price of $5.24 per 100 pounds in carload lots or $7.24 per 100 pounds in lesser amounts. They were the lowest of five bidders.

ARRANGE LENTEN PRAYER SERVICE

SHELBY—A series of services will be held next week at the First Lutheran church in observance of its annual Lenten week of prayer. Members of the missionary societies of the church will be the leaders of topics on the general theme, "We Would See Jesus."

The series will open with a special service at 3 p. m. Monday at the church. The subject, "Son of God and Son of Man," will be led by Mrs. B. H. Moffatt and Mrs. Marion Easterday. The only evening service of the series is at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday when the subject, "The Master Teacher," will be in charge of Miss Opal Gates and Miss Kathryn Reichhard.

Other services at 3 p. m. and their subjects and leaders follow: Wednesday, "The Great Physician," with Mrs. W. C. Gump, and Mrs. Carl Daugherty in charge; Thursday, "The Service of the World," with Mrs. F. L. Gump and Mrs. Guy Garnhart, and Friday, "The Living Lord," with Mrs. James Ellery and Mrs. D. B. Young.

GOP BACKS McMILLEN FOR HIGHWAY POST

Endorses Mifflin Man for Job If Fletcher Loses Appeal; McMullen Appointed.

James McMillen of Mifflin township had been endorsed today by the county Republican executive committee for the state maintenance superintendent's post in the county if Arthur Fletcher fails to win his job back.

Fletcher, a Democrat, who has held the job for two years, was dismissed by Robert S. Beightler, state highway director, effective Saturday. Fletcher immediately filed an appeal with the state civil service commission, contending that he had been discharged from a civil service job without cause.

Meanwhile, Arthur C. McMullen, former Mansfield waterworks superintendent, has been named chief assistant superintendent in the maintenance department and was due to start work today.

Appointment of McMillen is expected in a few days. Murray D. Shaffer, division engineer, said he is the leading contender for the post, although "two or three others" are being considered.

Former Waterworks Head.

McMullen, who served under former Mayor Earl A. McFarland as city waterworks superintendent, was named by the state highway director on the recommendation of the county executive committee.

Until a maintenance superintendent is named, Irvin Hope, assistant to Fletcher in the highway office here, will be in charge of the maintenance activities, it was announced from the Ashland division office.

Ralph M. Hardy, chairman of the county Republican executive committee, said today that Merritt Winbigler, Shelby, had been named an an employe of the Shelby state liquor store. He will replace a Democrttic appointee who was dismissed.

Previous dispatches from Columbus erroneously listed Jacque Wilkinson as the new employe of the Shelby store, Hardy said.

YOUTH GROUP MEETS AT TIRO

United Brethren Young People to Hold District Meeting Tuesday.

TIRO—The United Brethren Young Peoples Christian Union of the Shelby district met at Tiro U. B. church, Tuesday evening, for a "Hatchet" party.

After a "get-acquainted" game, the group enjoyed a fellowship supper.

Rev. P. W. Sharp spoke on "Qualities to be Developed by Young People." Ralph Capell, president of the union, outlined the purposes of the organization and named a nominating committee to choose officers.

Mirth Monn, vice president, outlined an activities contest in which the various churches of the district may participate.

Rev. Searle of Shelby was in charge of group singing, and the Willard delegation led a devotional service of which "Friendship" was the theme. Nearly 100 young people attended the session.

CUT ROOSEVELT FUND REQUESTS

Committee Slashes Treasury, Postoffice Budgets in New Economy Campaign.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The house appropriations committee, which started an economy drive this year by whittling down President Roosevelt's relief proposal, continued the campaign today by lopping $27,926,138 off his estimates for the treasury and postoffice departments.

The committee recommended $1,700,471,354 to operate both departments for the year starting July 1. Despite the reduction, the total was $197,029,290 greater than the sum provided for the current year.

Slashes Reserve Fund.

Most of the savings was accomplished by cutting $20,000,000 off the $600,000,000 requested for the social security old-age reserve fund. The committee explained the reduction was attributable to "what we regard as an excessive estimate of the amount of receipts from taxes to be realized during the next fiscal year."

Of the total in the bill, $909,626,670 was earmarked for the treasury and $790,844,684 for the postoffice department.

The latter's share was $2,488,053 less than for the current year and almost as much below the budget estimates. Despite the postal revenues, the committee estimated the department would operate with a net loss of about $1,844,684 during the next year. The deficit this year was estimated at $7,893,878.

Recommending a $996,000 item for trans-Atlantic air mail service, the committee said that barring some major upset in plans, the service should be on an operating basis during May.

The bill contains a $30,000,000 item for continuation of the $130,000,000 public building construction program authorized last year and for which $36,000,000 already has been made available. Part of the $30,000,000 would be available for 25 projects on which construction was deferred because the original estimated cost was too low.

WALLACE BEERYS AGREE TO SPLIT

Actor Says Wife to Leave Soon For Reno Divorce.

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. — (AP) —After being wed nearly 15 years, Wallace Beery and his second wife, the former Arleta Gillman, have agreed upon an "amicable" divorce, the actor said today, adding that Mrs. Beery will leave, probably next Monday, for Reno.

"We aren't even hiring a lawyer," said Beery. "We have agreed that our daughter, Carol Ann, will spend six months of the year with each of us."

Beery's first wife was Gloria Swanson. They were married in 1916 and divorced two years later.

NIST INSTRUCTS CHIEF TO SPEED PLUG THAWING

Tells Chief Firemen Must Get Hydrants Working 'Immediately.'

Service-Safety Director Earl A. Nist today had ordered Fire Chief Charles J. Seeburger to have thawed out "immediately" all fire hydrants found frozen.

The order was issued following the director's inquiry yesterday into the failure of the department to thaw out a hydrant at East Fourth and North Diamond streets, found frozen by them during a fire at an East Fourth street market Wednesday night.

Firemen found the hydrant frozen at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday. It was not thawed out until 10 a. m. the next day.

Nist said he had ordered that any hydrants found frozen at night be thawed out by the shift on duty. He pointed out that the city less than two months ago had purchased a new $145 steaming apparatus, mounted on a trailer, which could be taken to any part of the city in a few minutes.

Chief Has Answer.

The chief today said that the department engaged in a check of all hydrants, had already found two in the downtown section which needed repairs before they could be used. The repairs were to be made at once, he said.

He charged that failure of city officials to enforce a waterworks regulation requiring all persons drawing water from a hydrant to obtain a permit from the fire chief had caused the trouble.

He said that because of this laxity, street and sewer department employes and WPA workers were constantly putting hydrants out of service by using a pipe wrench on the valve instead of the proper tool.

He also pointed out that he had a supply of permits on hand for this purpose but that application was never made for permission to open the hydrants, which are under full control of the fire department.

FUNERAL TODAY

BUCYRUS — Funeral services were held this afternoon for Willard Prentiss Lee, 78, retired Bucyrus painter, who died at the home of his son, John Lee, 335 Kearsley street, Wednesday night. He had been ill two months. Burial was made in the Brokensword cemetery.

Survivors include two children, Mrs. Rose Lee Ramm, Chicago, and John Lee, at whose home he died, and one step-son, Walter Ryan; seven grandchildren and three great grandchildren. He was the last of a family of five children.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 24, 1939.

The real offense is in committing the wrong act—not in being found out.

Pan-American trade can't be a one-way traffic. The Latin-Americans are all willing to take our goods if we'll take theirs.

Now is the time to be paying real estate taxes—so as to be ready by March 15 to pay income tax—not forgetting the new auto license plates before April 1, and keeping in mind the retail sales tax each day.

Fewer Traffic Accidents In City.

SUBSTANTIAL reduction in traffic accidents in Mansfield during the past two months, as compared with the same period last year, leads to speculation as to how much further reduction might be accomplished if all motorists driving in this city and vicinity would voluntarily observe traffic regulations and reasonable rules of safe driving.

While icy pavements tend to make Mansfield's sloping streets particularly hazardous on occasional days, it is noted that drivers are inclined to be much more careful at such times and accidents occur with less frequency than when streets are free from ice or snow.

In the main, it is excessive speed, disregard for "stop" signs, inattention to traffic lights, carelessness in pulling out of parking places, and faulty brakes or other mechanical defects, that are responsible for city crashes in which cars are damaged and injuries sometimes sustained.

Without doubt, as stated by Police Chief Bates, motorists are becoming more "safety conscious" and it cannot be questioned that recent efforts toward stricter enforcement of traffic laws have also had a deterrent effect on habitually reckless drivers.

However gratifying the record of accident reduction in Mansfield during the past two months may be, it is well to keep in mind that there is no good reason why as many as 146 automobiles should have been damaged by collisions on city streets in that short time. The percentage of chance taken by a motorist driving in this city should be much smaller. It can be made so by a combination of law observance and law enforcement.

Gambling In Liquor Places.

WHAT, if anything, will be accomplished by state liquor department agents in checking up on gambling devices in Mansfield beer and liquor places, is problematical.

Gambling devices of various sorts, even so elaborate as bookie joint paraphernalia, have a habit of disappearing suddenly, in advance of an anticipated investigation, and to re-appear as quickly after a brief flurry of law enforcement.

Whether any serious effort is to be made, under the changed state administration, to ban gambling and tighten up on liquor law enforcement in general, remains to be shown.

Regulation of the state liquor board on the subject of gambling is clear and comprehensive. It reads:

"No person authorized to sell beer, intoxicating liquor or alcohol in Ohio shall have, harbor, keep, exhibit, possess or employ, or allow to be kept, exhibited or used in, upon or about the premises of the permit holder any device, machine or apparatus which may or can be used for gaming or wagering."

Any permit holder who can read and understand English should have no difficulty in grasping the meaning of this regulation, violation of which is regarded as sufficient to justify revocation of license.

If, by any chance, present investigators should find no evidence of anything in some of the Mansfield beer and liquor places that "may or can be used for gaming or wagering," the surmise can safely be that their visit was anticipated.

Frozen Hydrant Reveals Danger.

SERVICE-SAFETY DIRECTOR NIST is to be commended for his promptness in looking into the matter of a frozen hydrant in the business district, disclosed during a small fire at an East Fourth street business place Wednesday evening.

The value of a city's expensively maintained fire-fighting facilities lies largely in assurance of instant readiness to extinguish a small fire before it has time to become a large one.

A frozen hydrant in any part of the city should be recognized as a serious matter, requiring immediate attention, but in the closely built-up business section of the city there should be a feeling of confidence that no such condition can come about, either through faulty mechanism or negligence.

Mansfield has been visited heretofore by a number of disastrous fires in the business section, and it was only by extreme good fortune that the Wednesday evening blaze occurred at a time when it was quickly discovered and extinguished with small damage.

Mention, also, that this fire resulted from a defective chimney, serves to direct attention to the need for regular and thorough inspections throughout the business districts, to disclose existing fire hazards and require their correction. Fire prevention in a city is not a matter of a day's or a week's program—it is a year-round requirement for carefulness by individuals and immediate readiness of adequate and dependable fire-fighting equipment.

Guard Against Colds.

WEATHER changes at this time of year make it especially important to guard against the so-called "common cold" that is quite likely to develop quickly into something more serious—possibly pneumonia.

Influenza epidemics have been common in this vicinity and in other parts of the country in recent weeks. Seriousness of an attaack of flu should not be underestimated, nor should the need for staying in bed and having proper medical attention be neglected.

While some persons suffering from a cold feel obligated to continue work, this is unwise and also unfair to associate employes whose health may be endangered by exposure to germs scattered around by coughers and sneezers.

No fear of a return of bustles and hoopskirts—motor cars are not built to accommodate them.

Watching Trends

—By PRESTON GROVER

WASHINGTON — Termination of the war probably will be welcomed throughout Spain, but in no place more than in Madrid.

The war started in July of 1936 and since the fall of that year has been fought right in the front yard of Spain's capital city. Correspondents back from Madrid tell wierd stories of city life going on in a strained sort of way while artillery shells hiss overhead and machine gun bullets spatter on buildings within a few hundred yards of the downtown business district.

In places trenches are 15 feet apart—the distance across a room. Soldiers wearily curse each other back and forth. Radios on each side blare out propaganda designed to undermine the morale of the others.

The city population never has been united. Loyalist and Insurgent sympathizers have lived side by side through the long months of the bombardment. Trenches cut through western Madrid, with the insurgents holding a salient reaching deep into the city like a great tongue. All the fighting has been in the newer residential part but for a year or more neither side has been able to gain an inch.

Trenches Impregnable.

WELL constructed trenches have made surface gains impossible. The result has been attempts at undermining each other. In places these underground diggings have gone down 200 feet or more. Loyalist trenches are connected with the city sewer system, with lights, telephones and water.

The telephone system, American owned, has not been broken off between the Loyalist and Insurgent sections, although it is under strict military supervision. Those on one side can telephone across the trench lines to exchange bitter words with the others.

All civilian-owned automobiles were commandeered for the army early in the war and only a few foreign owned ones are operated. Street cars and subways are loaded with passengers as a result.

"They hang on the roofs to get a ride," said one correspondent.

Those with permits can ride the trolleys within a three minutes' walk of the front line trenches, and walk the balance of the distance almost to the scene of fighting, but always under strict guard.

Shell-Spattered 'Playground.'

CHILDREN play at times in the cross streets, knowing from bitter experience which streets to avoid because bullets sail down them. The favorite Florida hotel, at the head of the Grand Via, Madrid's principal street, for a long time was shelled daily because it was such a good target.

A few correspondents refused to leave it. Some would sit at vantage points and count shells as they whistled over. One was asleep when a shell tore through the wall of his bedroom just over his pillow, ploughed through the opposite wall and exploded in the bathroom, wrecking all the plumbing. The reporter was unhurt.

The city for months has been stagnant. Picture shows are always filled, as are cafes during the early evening. There is nothing else to do. Everything is blacked out at night.

The city's business is all operated on a collectivist basis. Food is parcelled out. The population, regardless of sympathies, is reported completely bored with the war. Few now run for safety even to escape shelling. Hospitals are filled with civilian wounded, as well as soldier wounded.

There is no singing, although Madrid once was the merriest city in Europe. Police have preserved good order in the city. The mayor, formerly a boiler maker, has seen to that.

"He has made a good mayor," said a correspondent.

The end of the war will bring retaliation against Loyalist leaders. Generalissimo Franco already has hinted that. Reports at the beginning of the war told of thousands of Insurgent sympathizers in Madrid killed or exiled when the war started. Correspondents expect thousands of Loyalist leaders to meet a like fate as the war ends. War, it seems, is Hell, even in sunny Spain.

As Others See It

Here's An Idea.

Business should be required to give us workers vacations with double pay. We need a lot more than ordinary pay when we are on a vacation. — Kansas City Times.

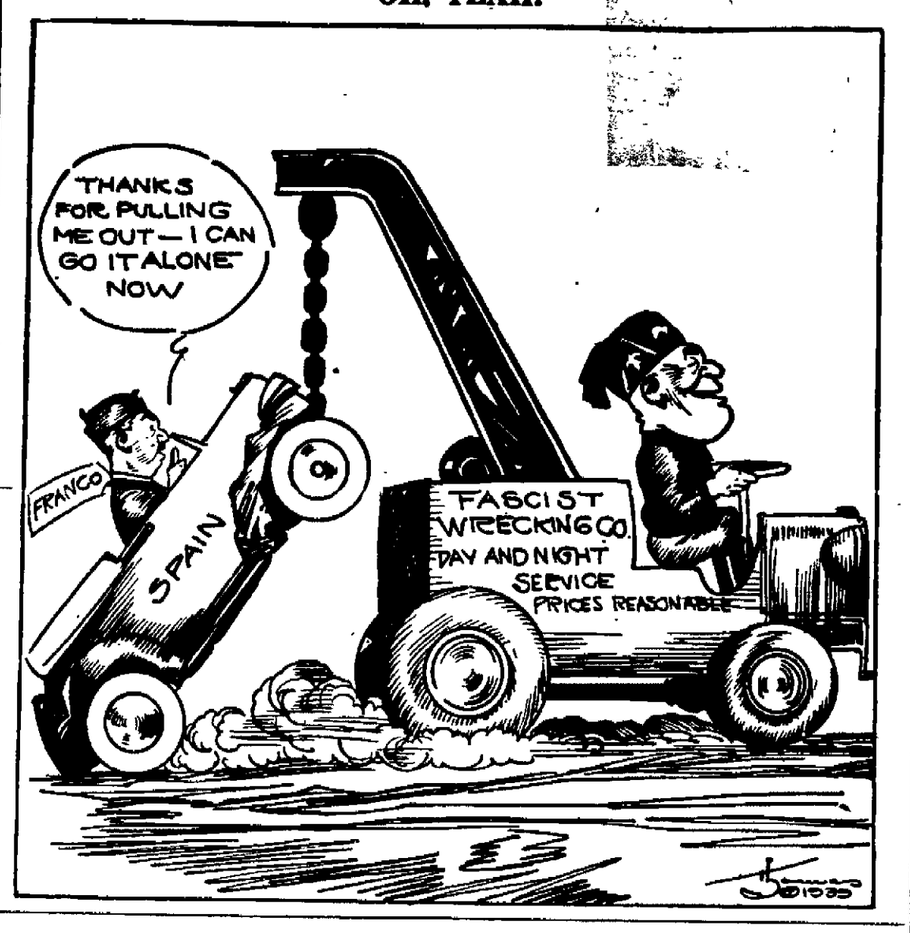
OH, YEAH!



Colonization In Brazil Unlikely

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Out of the recent visit paid to this country Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha of Brazil there has been developed as weird a scheme as ever I heard of for the colonization of thousands of our unemployed in Senor Aranha's home republic.

The scheme probably sounds rational to folk who never were nearer to Brazil than Palm Beach (Fla.), but to anyone who ever has been there—gosh a'mighty!

I do not believe that Senor Aranha ever said this (he has too much sense), but he is quoted as saying, "Brazil is perfectly enormous." Which is true, it is larger than the continental United States. "Its population," Minister Aranha is quoted as continuing, "is very skimpy." That is true, too. It is about 20 per cent of ours, with more than our amount of room to contain it. "And we are enormously rich," proceeds Friend Aranha, "in undeveloped resources — minerals, rubber, tropical woods, coffee, cotton, cattle, everything you can think of." True, all of it.

"Yet with all this wealth of opportunities available," Brother Aranha is alleged to be saying, "you Yankees practically disregard us. We have German immigrants, but few 'Norte Americanos.' Is it surprising that Nazi influence outweighs democracy?

"Why don't you come down and 'hump' yourselves?"

Why Not, Indeed?

Well, in the first place, there is not nearly as much mass German immigration into Brazil, or the rest of Latin America, as is represented.

German business is influential, but the proportion of German urban toilers and farmers is inconsiderable; the Germans have not much voting strength, Latin American bulk is Spanish, Portuguese, Italian and, in spots Indian or semi-African. We "Norte Americanos" could colonize until we are black in the face, and we could not make much impression against these Latins and "mixtos." Ditto Germany and Britain. They are significant only economically; not as to numbers.

Nevertheless, the argument is advanced that we have, in the U. S. A., about 10,000,000 unemployed.

What is the matter with transplanting some of them in Brazil.

That is the "dope."

Times Change.

Now the United States was created in an era when immigrants would stand hardships.

Within my own day I have seen them settling, say, the Dakotas. A family would arrive under a "covered wagon," fix up a sod-house, dig its own well, light itself with candles, reckon with its own midwifery.

It cannot be done today by second or third generation pioneers.

They have got to have electric lights, telephones, telegraphic communication, a radio. Maybe a few aborigines in the remoter jungles will stand for the lack of some of these modern improvements—but civilized immigrants will not. They will not immigrate if they realize what they are going up against. They will not do it to get off relief, even.

Climatic Conditions.

Aside from all that, the average "relief family" from a temperate zone cannot be transferred to the tropics without killing it.

And supposing it DID live under new conditions, could it find markets?

Its markets have got to be in the United States principally.

The thing involves about a generation of development anyway.

All Have Fizzled.

1. Dutch, after the Boer war, in Patagonia. One hundred per cent failure.

2. "Tex" Rickard in Argentine Chaco, just after the World war. Flat $1,000,000 fizzle.

3. Alfalfa Bill Murray's Bolivian Chaco, failed just after Rickard's failure.

4. Fred Engen's Canadian-American Chaco—winding up in a Paraguayan revolution, landing nowhere.

The nub of it is that foreign colonization in Latin America is hooey. Those folks are as different from us as the Chinese are, or the Japanese, or the Europeans, or anybody.

How about being American?

Health Advice

Unique Description of Specialism.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

MY FRIEND, Dr. Karl Menninger, of Topeka, author of the current very popular book, Man Against Himself, delivered himself in the course of an address at the New York Academy of Medicine a month or so ago, of the following fable, which explains from his point of view the division of medicine into specialties:

"Six blind men sat by the gate of a great city as an elephant was led slowly past. Inspired by scientific curiosity of the highest degree, the six blind men rushed forward to palpate the great beast and to determine the nature of his being.

"The first man's hands fell upon the elephant's tusks. 'Ah!' said he, 'This creature is a thing of bones; they even protrude through his skin.' Later on, years having passed, this man became an orthopedist.

Seized Trunk.

"At the same time the second blind man seized the elephant's trunk and identified its function. 'What a nose!' he exclaimed. 'Surely this is the most important part of the animal.' Accordingly, he became a rhinologist.

"The third man changed upon the elephant's great flapping ear and came to a similar conclusion; for him the ear was everything, so he, in time, became an otologist.

"The fourth blind man rested his hands on the huge chest and abdomen of the elephant. 'The contents of this barrel must be enormous,' he thought, 'and the pathological derangements infinite in number and variety.' Nothing would do but that he should become an internist.

"One of the blind men caught hold of the elephant's tail. 'This,' he said, 'would appear to be a useless appendage. It might ever be a source of trouble. Better take it off.' This blind man became a surgeon.

"But the last of the six men did not depend upon the sense of touch. Instead, he only listened. He had heard the elephant approaching, the rattle of chains and the shouts of the keepers. It may be that he heard the elephant heaving a great sigh as he trudged along. 'Where is the creature going?' he asked. No one answered. 'Where did he come from?' he asked. No one knew.

"Then this man fell into a deep reverie. What was in the elephant's mind, he wondered, by having left wherever he was and having come to this great city? Why does he submit to the indignities of our curiosity and the slavery of chains? And while he was wondering how to find out the answers to these questions the elephant was gone.

Last Is Psychiatrict.

"This man became a psychiatrist."

To one who lives in a severely practical world, this might seem to glorify the work of the specialist in disorders of the psyche somewhat too extravagantly. After all, when you have bone trouble, the bone itself becomes pretty important, but, then, Karl Menninger is a very brilliant man, made nearer in the image of God than most of the rest of us, and he may be more right than we think.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Monday, Feb. 24, 1919.

Mrs. Carl F. Torrence was again at office after three months illness.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Saturday, Feb. 24, 1934.

Edward F. Wickwire, vice president of the Ohio Brass company, died at his home in Cleveland.

A snowfall of 5.5 in., breaking a record of years, covered the city and dropped school attendance to a new low.

Isaac Stull, 71, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Charles Woods, 583 Springmill street.

Mercy Killings Proposed.

The question of "mercy killings" has been brought up again. The Euthanasia Society of America has prepared a bill in New York to legalize "the granting of peaceful death to incurable sufferers." When discussed before the Society of Medical Jurisprudence there was less difference of opinion on the need of euthanasia than on how it should be invoked. One view was to limit peaceful death to those asking for it. Others would restrict it to imbeciles and hopelessly insane persons.

Dr. Poster Kennedy, president of the Euthanasia society, remarked that to permit mercy death for those who can ask it and deny it to hopeless creatures who cannot request it would make him say with Dickens, "The law's an ass."

The nation will look to New York to see what happens with the mercy death proposal discussed from widely divergent viewpoints. —Toledo Blade.

A Farmer's Diary

"No Parking to the Corner."

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I DROVE into town the other day and parked my car where I thought it was safe from being disturbed while I did two necessary errands. When I returned I saw a uniformed policeman walking up the street, on the side where I had parked.

As I unlocked my car door I noticed a thin yellow cardboard attached to my windshield by two shiny strands of wire.

"A new fad in advertising," thought I, and started down the street. The card fluttered in the wind and made a moaning sound. To stop this trouble, I rose behind the steering wheel to grab the offensive ad, and in doing so almost bumped my car into a brand new auto parked along the curb. I heard a slight metallic click as the bumpers touched.

I was half way down the block before I recovered from my fright and thought once more of the yellow card which I held crumpled in my hand. Then I looked at it and was shocked to read in bold black type "POLICE DEPARTMENT."

Hurriedly I pulled up to the nearest vacant curb and read the entire card. It shouted to me that I had violated the traffic laws and should appear no later than a certain date at police headquarters.

It was a terse command, such as I was unfamiliar with. I knew the class of people who are herded into such a place, and here was I among the rogues.

I told the officer at the desk that I had parked with my rear wheels only three feet over the yellow line—and that I had often done it before. He straightened his broad shoulders, smiled at my discomfiture, and said, "Times have changed." I was quite convinced he told the truth.

"How much is the fine?" I asked.

"One dollar, and you get a receipt."

As the clerk filled out the blank, I noticed a thousand stubs or more that had been filled out before mine. Four other folks, with long and sober faces came in as I went out.

Listen, World!

The New Home—Machine Age Model.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SAID we, "The Old-Fashioned Home is a flop . . . a wasteful, extravagant anachronism, utterly at variance with the streamlined, scientific world."

And barely had the newsies announced the first edition before the phones were ringing, asking How We Got That Way and What, If Anything, We Proposed To Do About It.

We got that way, partners, by listening to thousands of complaints from disgusted Dads, Discouraged Mothers and Restless Youngsters . . . none of whom could find an answer for what-ails-them in our present domestic line-up. They love each other—those Fathers, Mothers and Youngsters. They want to be happy with each other. They want to find the same kind of domestic pride and pleasure which their Grandparents found, 100 years ago.

But how can it be done, with costs mounting beyond all reason . . . with endless outside interests challenging the home's simple amusements, adding to the parents' discouragement and the youngsters' restlessness?

IS THERE ANY WAY TO BRING THE HOME UP-TO-DATE AS WE'VE BROUGHT BUSINESS UP-TO-DATE . . . ANY WAY TO MAINTAIN ITS TRADITIONAL PLACE AND POWER IN THE COMMUNITY . . . ANY WAY TO SALVAGE FAMILY LIFE?

Yes, there is! And, everywhere, intelligent and courageous people are working on the job. No use weeping for the Dear Old Days that have gone, when the home was both a social and industrial center. Big Business and Public Pleasure have changed all that. Why make your own soap, when you can buy it for a tenth the cost at a nearby grocery? Why try to tie the children to a game of checkers when there's an automobile at the curb and a neighborhood movie around the corner? FACE LIFE AS IT IS TODAY — NOT AS IT WAS IN QUEEN VICTORIA'S TIME.

So these pioneers on the modern frontier are wasting no tears over yesterday's hand-hemmed dish towels and mustard pickles. Instead, they are ORGANIZING THE HOME AS BIG BUSINESS HAS BEEN ORGANIZED. Eliminating surplus space . . . needless labor. Consolidating basic needs so that a dozen families may be carried under one "overhead cost," instead of duplicating expenses as we now do in separate homes. Establishing cooking, cleaning, sewing and nursing services, thus giving individual wives more leisure and diversity—and a chance to do the thing at which she is most efficient.

That much for the economic problem. But how about the rest of it . . . possessive parents resenting youth's "ingratitude," feeling that sacrifice is useless and family life a blind alley? Restless youngsters retorting, rebelling . . . claiming home is a trap . . . walking out on the sobs and sermons? Everybody sick of everybody else . . . none of the old loyalty . . . is there an answer to THAT? There is!

Bring your emotions up to date, as you bring your budget! Make home life part of world life! Stop the poisonous segregation . . . the unhealthy isolation! Get back into circulation! Do not let your family circle end with the boundaries of your bungalow . . . make it wide enough to embrace every happy, healthy human interest! Be part of the big parade! Leave the narrow limitations of your private home as your primeval fathers and mothers left the dark huddle of their tree houses, their caves, their tents and huts

You want a blue print of the new Machine Age home? There it is, sanest and friendliest home man has ever devised for himself or his children! But have you the courage to take it . . . or must you still crouch in some smelly cave?

(Copyright, 1939.)

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Several years ago somebody wrote a book about South street. It was a very dull book and not at all what it should have been, for few streets had the romantic appeal of this old center of Yankee trading in a day when white-bosomed square riggers dotted the waterfront.

But for all its glamorous bygones and maritime legends, I think it must take second place to West street today. Few streets anywhere have the meat that West street has. The scene of trading operations has shifted from East River to the Hudson. Here the big liners report and depart. Here are outlets for two eastern rail centers, the Erie and the Lackawanna. And here comes the produce from Jersey and New England.

Four-fifths of New York's green vegetables, apples, tomatoes, pears, cranberries, citrus fruits, potatoes, poultry, grapes—indeed everything that grows which New York uses in its daily cuisine is dumped in here in carload lots. These cargoes arrive after dark, when traffic is at low tide, and for several hours before and after midnight in the vicinity of Chambers street, which empties into West, the sidewalks are 20 feet high with tomorrow's green salads, fruits and vegetables.

HAVING witnessed these operations on frequent occasions, it never fails to astound me to find the street comparatively clear in the morning, with only a few crates of cranberries here, a few bags of potatoes there. They have been whisked by truck to thousands of confederate retail stores and shops throughout the city. And as completely as they have disappeared from the street, so in a few hours will they disappear from the shops—into the throats of New York's hungry seven millions.

But West street, widest of Manhattan's thoroughfares and a scene of humming activity day and night, is not given entirely to produce. It has its shipping too. All the major liners creep past. Here all the great modern mechanized docks are located. From West street you may see buoys floating in the river's channel, and hear the wail of sirens, the throaty bawl of fog horns.

THE great river traffic of the Hudson plies to and fro 24 hours a day. On her piers the talk is of "anchorages" "winds," "tides," "landings," "slips." There are seamen cafes which keep open all night just to accommodate the crews of French and British liners. There are great tea and coffee houses here, warehouses and central offices of Eastern princes who deal in spiced merchandise from the Orient. And there are good-natured but iron-fisted Irish cops who keep an eye on the longshoremen, and the motorists, and street idlers.

West street is a bad place in which to engage in fisticuffs. The brass-knuckle and the jimmy are not unknown here. And the dockwallopers know how to accommodate anyone looking for trouble.

STAGE YOPEDIO DRAMA FESTIVAL AT HIGH SCHOOL

Young People From 6 County Churches to Take Part in Annual Event Sunday.

Forty young people from six Richland county churches will take part in the second annual Yopedic Richland County Drama Festival Sunday afternoon and evening in the Senior high school auditorium.

The young people's society from each church will stage one play, being given beginning at 2 p. m., and three others at 7:30 p. m. The winning play will represent the county at the state festival in Columbus, March 25 and 26.

Leaders of the Yopedio said purposes of the festival is to promote a larger use of religious drama as a spiritual and educational experience in the church; to raise the standard of religious drama; to afford young people a method by which they may become teachers and preachers, and to encourage creative writing of religious drama.

Plays will be judged by a committee of three.

A program of entertainment including vocal selections by Arthur Boyce of Shelby will be presented between acts. Miss Mabel Lynch, county Yopedio president, will preside during the festival, and Conrad Diehm of Mansfield will explain the purpose of religious drama.

Plays and Casts.

Plays to be presented in the afternoon and the characters are:

"Barabbas," by young people of First Lutheran church, Shelby; Rev. M. P. Paetznick, Glen Stevenson, Catherine Reichard, John Stock, Robert Boreman and Mr. Tyler.

"The Bishop's Candlesticks," by young people of the St. Johns Evangelical church, Mansfield; Fred Haag, Paul Smith, Marianne Boebel, Amelia Haberbuchler, Conrad Diehm, Harold Foss, George Warner. Miss Minnie Laudon is director.

The evening plays are:

"The Price of the Party,' by young people of the Shelby United Brethren church; Eugene Echert, Stella Oster. Glen Earl, Effie Durst, Paul Morrow, Mirth Monn and Lois Miller. Lois Faulkner and Mabel Lynch are directors.

"The Widow," by young people of Richland Church of the Brethren, Franklin township; Milo Cocanour, Selwyn Copeland, Winifred Wheeler, Jack Menke, and Harold Copeland. Rev. F. B. Million is director.

FRIENDLINESS OF GUATEMALA VITAL TO U. S.

Knickerbocker Says Country Would Give America Use of Air Base If War Comes.

(Editor's Note: The strong military advantage accruing to the United States from the open friendliness of Guatemala, which is ready to hand over its strategic air field to America in event of war, is set forth in the following article by H. R. Knickerbocker, foreign correspondent of International News Service.)

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

(Copyright 1939 by International News Service. Reproduction in whole or part strictly prohibited.)

GUATEMALA CITY — Every square mile of territory within air-bombing distance of the Panama Canal is of vital military importance to the United States. The five states of Central America are all within easy bombing distance of the canal. Are they friends of the United States? Could an enemy count on using them as a base to attack us?

Were the United States to be involved in war, the privilege of flying over the Central American republics, using their airports, might become of primary importance. Can they be depended upon to give the U. S. army and navy that privilege?

Should enemy explosives disable the Panama Canal, and by improbable mischance, enemy troops control the Canal Zone, the right to send men, military supplies and freight across or down the Central American isthmus, could decide a war for us? Can the United States be confident of Central American co-operation when we need it most?

Vital Significance.

At this moment when the high potential of international hatreds threatens at any moment to discharge in the thunderbolt of war, the answer to these questions has become of immediate significance. The good neighbor policy has already cost the United States a vast sum of money in Mexico where the Cardenas government has expropriated more than $200,000,000 worth of American property. What political dividends has this investment brought us in Central America?

Guatemala is paying dividends on the good neighbor policy. Guatemala is as good as a military ally of the United States. The president of Guatemala is the most efficient dictator in Central America, possibly in all of Latin America. He has the most powerful military establishment in Central America. He is ready to put it and his country on the side of the United States if and when we need them.

That is the true attitude of the Guatemalan government towards the United States. The government is "Tata." "Tata" is the Indians' name for Gral. Jorge Ubico, president of Guatemala. "Tata" means papa. "Gral" is the Spanish abbreviation for general. All Latin America is ruled by "Grals."

But this picture of Gral. Ubico's policy could only be learned by coming here, miraculously as one does nowadays, floating down in a Pan-American plane from the blinding blue onto the world's most sensational airfield. A plain five thousand feet high, facing a backdrop of majestic volcanoes which tower thousands of feet higher through and above the milk-white clouds, this airfield of Guatemala City, personal pride and to all intents and purposes the personal property of President Ubico, is ours for the asking. America's for the using, by grace of its owners.

Use It As You Like.

"You can consider this airfield your own. You can land your airforce here, store your supplies here, use it as a United States army base whenever you like and for as long as you like," they told me as I sipped a cup of the incomparable Guatemalan coffee served to all arrivals. We stood on the balcony of the neat little airfield station built in Spanish colonial style and colored a rich ochre blending with the deep green of the surrounding mountains.

"Who said so?" I asked.

"General Ubico," was the answer

"But I thought Ubico was anti-American," I replied, recalling what Mexicans said in Mexico, and in particular several magazine articles in America which had described the "Fascist Ubico" as "relentlessly hostile to the United States," "pro-nazi," and under the thumb of the Italians."

"Nonsense," came the reply "Ubico is the only real friend America has in Central America He has told the U. S. military authorities they may consider his resources theirs He has told them he can put 70,000 men in the field, and that he will do so for America when she needs them

'Follow U. S. Lead'

"He gave orders to his delegation at Lima to follow the lead of the United States. At the time of the Czechoslovak crisis when it looked as though war was certain, Ubico called in his foreign minister and told him, 'If the United States goes in, so do we'."

The speaker is a composite of every source of information, Guatemalan, American and neutral, available to an inquirer in Guatemala City. There is no dissent from the opinion given. I have checked and rechecked and sought diligently for evidence to support a contrary view but could find none. The conclusion is that those who have branded Ubico as unfriendly to America have done so from lack of firsthand knowledge, or have succumbed to Mexican propaganda.

Mexico hates Guatemala and Guatemala hates Mexico. They have an ancient quarrel because 100 years ago the Mexican Emperor Iturbide seized the Guatemalan province of Chiapas and Mexico has kept it ever since. Their modern quarrel is based upon the fact that Mexico is a left dictatorship and Guatemala a right dictatorship. Mexico calls Guatemala Fascist. Guatemala calls Mexico Bolshevik.

SPAIN PREPARES FULL SURRENDER

he, Barrio, next in line of succession, refuses to take over the office.

The presidency thus will be extinct. Azana will thereby carry out his threat to abandon Premier Juan Negrin and Foreign Minister Julio Del Vayo, who went to central Spain to reorganize and continue resistance against the Nationalists.

Negrin and Del Vayo announced they would fight until they obtained terms from Franco guaranteeing the independence of Spain and the promise of a plebiscite. They also asked assurances there would be no reprisals.

Britain and France failed to obtain written guarantees from Franco covering these points. As a result Anglo-French efforts are underway to induce the Republicans to lay down their arms on the basis of verbal assurances.

Recognizes Franco's Regime Next Sunday.

(By International News Service)

LONDON—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's government plans formally to announce its recognition of the Insurgent regime in Spain on Sunday, International News Service was informed on reliable authority today.

The announcement, which will recognize Generalissimo Francisco Franco's regime as the ruling government of Spain, will be made for publication in Monday's newspapers, it was stated.

According to the International News Service informant, this action will be taken unless some last-minute development, at present unforeseen, prevents.

City Schools To Save $1500 Under New Law On Loans

A new law, made official today by the signature of Gov. John W. Bricker, will save the Mansfield board of education approximately $1,500 a year in interest on school foundation loans.

The law requires the state to assume the interest on loans to boards of education as the result of delayed allocations of state school funds

The Mansfield board had a continuous debt of about $50,000 last year due to the delays in distributing the foundation money. The board was forced to pay three per cent interest on the loans from banks.

Another bill signed into law by the governor will provide $12,600,000 for schools under the foundation program for January, February and March.

The appropriation will release past-due funds to the city and county schools for operating expenses

Other ranking players were J. H. Gongwer, second; J. C. Gorman, third; Martin L. Brunner, fourth; F. L. Grimes, fifth, Howard Wenning, sixth, and O. D. Steil, seventh. The grand slam prize was won by W. E. Renwick.

Winners of the final round were Bart Haley, first, and C. K. Carter, F. L Grimes and Dr. D. A. Weir, tied for second. Thirty-nine players took part in the tournament which has been in progress for the past six Thursday nights.

PROJECTS OKED

Postoffices in Greenwich and New Washington Approved.

Postoffice buildings for Greenwich, Huron county and New Washington, Crawford county, have been approved by the treasury and postoffice departments, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Washington today.

The proposed Greenwich project would cost $70,000 and that for New Washington would cost a similar amount, the dispatch said.

The two proposals were included in a number of other similar projects with a total estimated cost of $146,421,000.

TAKES STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

Autoist Accused of Leaving Accident Scene to Testify as Trial's Resumed.

Russell L. Tappan, 219 South Mulberry street, was to take the witness stand in municipal court this afternoon to testify in his own defense on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident in which a Mansfield man was injured.

The trial was to be resumed at 1:30 p m. following a recess. This morning, during a three-hour session, six witnesses for the prosecution were heard. Among them was Howard W. Fox, 268 Harker street, whom Tappan was alleged to have struck with his car on Feb. 4.

Fox, with his injured shoulder still in a cast, told the court how he had been struck by an automobile as he alighted from his machine on West Fourth street.

He testified that he obtained the license number of the car and reported the accident to the police. His wife also testified that she had written down the license number of the car as it drove away

Testimony by Lieut. Paul Whipp and Patrolman John Gilbert revealed that the officers had traced the license and then went to the Tappan home where they found the man in bed fully clothed. They said his car was in the garage and that the motor was still warm.

E. C. Fuller, police identification expert, submitted evidence including hub caps from the front wheels of both the Tappan and Fox automobiles which he said showed evidence of paint from both machines.

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Phoebe Obrecht; one brother, Harold of near Mohican, and four sisters, Mary and Ruth at home, Mrs. Fern Humm of near Mohican and Mrs. Carrie Spring of near Ashland.

DEWEY BRANDS HINES 'CORRUPT'

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today denounced James J. Hines as "a corrupt politician" as he reviewed the state's case against the Tammany district leader and asked for his conviction on policy racket conspiracy charges.

Dewey struck back at the defense contention that Hines was the victim of a "frame-up" at the hands of the policy mob he is charged with protecting and told the jury that Hines was "a traitor to democracy."

The prosecutor held that Lloyd Paul Stryker, Hines' lawyer, had tried to create the impression that a "corrupt politician accused of protecting criminals" was a symbol of democracy and a part in the fight to preserve that democracy.

"That, I resent as a dirty business," Dewey said. "That was a wilful and filthy attempt to arouse pity for a traitor to democracy."

Dewey reviewed the testimony which told the story of the rise of the policy racket and its ultimate domination by Dutch Schultz. He said that under Schultz's domination and Hines' protection, the policy racket gang opened public headquarters on Lenox avenue to show the Harlem public they were protected.

NAMES DEPUTY REGISTRARS FOR AUTO TAG SALE

State Official Appoints 39 to Handle Distribution in Richland and Vicinity.

Appointment of 39 deputy registrars of motor vehicles to handle the sale of automobile license plates and drivers licenses in Richland and surrounding counties had been announced today by Cy Wallace, state registrar.

Only three of the seven deputies in Richland county were reappointments. They include Frank Beverstock, secretary of the Richland County Automobile club; Mrs. Emma Chamberlin, Lucas, and Lee Henry of Olivesburg.

New deputy registrars include Ellen Bowers, Bellville; D. A. Spayde, Butler; C. E. Morris, Shelby, and Clarence M. Ervin, Plymouth.

Beverstock, one of the veteran deputies in the state, has directed the sale of auto license tags here for 20 years, serving through six successive changes in state administrations.

Recommended by G. O. P.

Former Richland deputy registrars who were replaced this year were E. O. Kochheiser, Bellville; Aubrey McCulloch, Butler; George W. Armstrong, Shelby, and David Bachrach, Plymouth.

License plates will go on sale March 1 and may be used on or after March 10. No 1938 tags will permitted after midnight March 31.

BOATS COLLIDE AT GOLDEN GATE

Freighters Crash, Water Pours In But Both Get to Port.

SAN FRANCISCO —(AP)— The State Line freighter San Clemente and American-Hawaiian Steamship company vessel Carolinian collided in pitch darkness early today beneath the heads of the Golden Gate bridge at the entrance to San Francisco bay.

The San Clemente was inbound from Seattle and the Columbia river while the Carolinian was en route out of the bay to the same ports.

The Carolinian reported a plate stove in amidships and was taking water rapidly in No. 5 hold. The bow of the San Clemente was crushed above the water line. Neither vessel asked for aid and both proceeded into the bay.

TESTIFY AGAINST EX-COMPANION

2 on Probation in Clover Seed Theft Take Stand for State; Case Nearing Jury.

Questioning of defense witnesses in the trial of Harold Courts, 33, of Norwalk, accused of breaking into a granary on a Butler township farm, was nearing completion this afternoon and the petit jury was expected to get the case before 3 p. m.

Testimony of seven prosecution witnesses was completed this morning. Among them were Lavern Huber and John Bell, who allegedly were with Courts when clover seed valued at $108 was stolen from a farm in Butler township several weeks ago.

The two men who were placed on probation after pleading guilty to charges of breaking and entering, testified against Courts.

County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott saw the possibility of a guilty plea in the case against Sam Anderson, 56, Mansfield, who is scheduled to go on trial this afternoon or Saturday on a charge of blackmail.

Marriott said Anderson had indicated he might plead guilty, making a trial unnecessary. Anderson was indicted on the complaint of county authorities who said he accepted $61 for promised immunity from prosecution of two Adario youths who admitted assaulting him and taking his clothing.

COUGHING CAN OFTEN BE PREVENTED
If your child often coughs at night because of even a slight cold—do this at bedtime: Thoroughly massage Vicks VapoRub on throat, chest, and back. VapoRub's poultice-vapor action tends to keep the air-passages clear, helping to maintain normal breathing through the nose, and so reducing mouth-breathing (the frequent cause of night

STAGE DRAMA

K. of P. to Climax Birthday Celebration Tuesday.

The Mansfield lodge of Knights of Pythias will present a five-act play, "The Lesson of Friendship," at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Senior high school auditorium, climaxing the local celebration of the 75th anniversary of the founding of the order.

Four Senior high school students have roles in this drama of Damon and Pythias. They are Robert Sheriff, Harold Duda, William Layton and Charles McClure. G. P. VanArnam of the high school staff will direct.

Music between acts will be furnished by the high school orchestra directed by S. K. Jorgenson.

THEATERS

AN interesting cast is set for "Midnight," the Paramount comedy, for supporting Claudette Colbert and Don Ameche are Francis Lederer, Mary Astor, John Barrymore and his wife Elaine Barry. . . . Charlie Ruggles is working in "Invitation To Happiness" under the direction of his brother, Wesley Ruggles . . . Despite the indifference of movie goers to Nancy Kelly in "Jesse James," Twentieth Century-Fox will spend $100,000 on publicity alone for her in an attempt to build her up . . . The cast of "Man About Town" is full of "names" what with Jack Benny, Dorothy Lamour, Edward Arnold, Binnie Barnes, Phil Harris, Rochester (Benny's radio valet), Monty Wooley and Isabel Jeans—one of England's foremost actresses . . .

Gold Diggers Again.

Starting away back in the years when talking pictures were new the Gold Diggers series began with such stars as Winnie Lightner and Nick Lukas. The most recent film of the series is "Gold Diggers In Paris", with Rudy Vallee, Rosemary Lane, Hugh Herbert and Allen Jenkins. It is one of the Majestic features for the last two days of the week. A George O'Brien Western, "The Renegade Ranger" story of midnight marauders who pit themselves against a captain of the Texas rangers is also being shown.

Romance In Hawaii.

Eleanor Powell of the dancing feet goes Hawaiian in her new picture "Honolulu," which opens Saturday afternoon at the Ohio, and in a shimmering "grass" skirt and a lei of gardenias, she gives a new meaning to the hula dance. Robert Young is the other partner in the romance, and comedy races through the film with Gracie Allen and George Burns. The story presents lavish scenes in Hawaii, New York and on board ship. The song numbers include "Honolulu" by Gracie Allen, and "This Night Will Be My Souvenir" and "The Leader Doesn't Like Music." Young plays a Hollywood star eager for a vacation and Miss Powell is seen as a cabaret dancer.

Adopts Two Boys.

Charlie Ruggles and Mary Boland are re-united in another domestic comedy after two years of playing separate films. "Boy Trouble," one of two features at the Madison today and tomorrow shows Ruggles, a harassed department store clerk, returning home at the end of the day to find that his wife has adopted a boy in a moment of abandon. His protests only add another boy and most of the action concerns his efforts to get along with his foster sons. J. Edgar Hoover's "Persons In Hiding" with Lynne Overman, J. Carroll Naish and Patricia Morison is the second feature.

Zane Grey Story.

A robust story of the old West brings Larry Crabbe back to the screen in a Zane Grey story "Forlorn River," in the role of Nevada, one that he has played several times before. In the course of action Crabbe frustrates the efforts of a band of horse thiefs in their attempt to hi-jack a herd consigned to the government. "Strange Faces" brings Dorothea Kent and Frank Jenks, with Andy Devine, to the Ritz screen for today and Saturday.

Boots and Saddles.

George O'Brien, one of the most popular of Western film stars, is also an attraction at the Park theater the last half of the week, where he is starred in 'Border G-Man." It is munition smugglers who engage his attention this time in an action-filled story of guns, horses, beautiful women and smugglers. The picture is at the Park theater where Victor McLaglen stars in the second film, "The Devils Party."

'JEZEBEL' HERE MONDAY

'Jezebel," the motion picture which won the Academy Award last night for Bette Davis, for the "best performance by an actress in 1938," will be brought back to Mansfield and shown at the Majestic theater Sunday and Monday, Manager Wayne Williams announced today.

Questions Tell of New Jobless Insurance Act

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of questions and answers pertaining to the new Ohio Unemployment Compensation Act.)

Q—Before making payment of any claim for benefits, will the previous employer be advised of the pending payment, and will it necessitate any approval or consent upon the part of the previous employer to make the benefit claim and charge against the employer's account?

A—All employers whose accounts will be affected by a charge-back will be notified. If such employer disputes the right to make such charge-back against his account, he is entitled to appeal his case.

Q—Will a monthly, quarterly, yearly, or any other periodical statement of account be sent to each employer whose reserve account is charged for benefit claims?

A—A statement of the status of an employer's account will be sent periodically to all employers.

Q—A workman living in Chicago, Ill., with his family, works approximately four months during 1938 in the state of Ohio, and his employer pays into the Ohio and the federal funds, the contributions on his payroll. The construction job is finished. The workman returns to his home in Illinois and is unable to find work. Where does he file claim for benefits, who pays the claim and on what basis?

A—The workman files his claim for benefits in Illinois, and would be covered by the inter-state benefit payment plan. The accounts of his employers, in inverse chronological order, will be charged in order to pay the individual's claim.

Q—What is there in the Ohio law to prevent benefits being paid on claims which are not perfectly justifiable?

A—Either the employe or the employer has a right to appeal to the common pleas court of the county in which he resides after he has first exhausted his rights before the commission or its representatives.

Q—Do workers employed on Public Works Administration projects for an individual contractor receive credit for employment in computing their credits for unemployment compensation benefits?

A—Yes

Q—Do workers employed on Works Progress Administration projects receive credit?

A—No.

IN FESTIVAL

Shiloh Churches Take Part in Mansfield Event.

SHILOH—Young people of the Plant Lutheran and United Brethren churches of this city will present plays at the Richland county drama festival Sunday at the Mansfield Senior high school auditorium. The annual event is sponsored by the County Yopedio council.

The play, "The Price of a Party," directed by the Misses Mabel Lynch and Lois Faulkner will be given by the United Brethren young people at 7:30 p. m. Characters in the play will be portrayed as follow: a college boy by Glenn Earl, Betty, Stella Oster; Mr. Hamby, Eugene Eckert, Mrs. Hamby, Effie Durst; hired hand, Paul Morrow; Mrs. Merrill, Mirth Monn, and the maid, Lois Faulkner.

The Lutheran young people will present the religious play, "Barabbas," at 2 p. m. The play, directed by Mrs. D. B. Young, includes the following cast: Barabbas, Rev. M. P. Paetznick; Toras, Glenn Stevenson; Hamath, John Stock; Thaddeus, Robert Boreman; Simeon, William Tyler; and Mary Magdalene, Kathryn Reichhard.

STAY IN MINE

61 Miners Demand Payment of Back Wages In Cash.

HAZLETON, Pa.—(INS)—Grimly and doggedly, 61 miners today maintained their "stay-down" strike in protest against delinquent payment of wages by continuing to isolate themselves 250 and 500 feet below the surface at the Wolfe colliery in nearby Oneida.

The men ended their second night in the depths by issuing an ultimatum that they would not end the strike unless their back wages were paid in cash.

RECORD SHOWS MORE LEVIES URGED EARLIER

Secret Testimony Discloses 'No New Tax' Plan Reverses Previous Stand.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—The administration's new edict against more taxes was disclosed today to be a reversal of views that Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, jr., expressed secretly to a house committee only a month ago.

On Jan. 18, Morgenthau told the committee that "somewhere between $400,000,000 and $450,000,000 of new taxes are indicated." Yesterday he said at a press conference that new taxes are not contemplated, and went on to suggest that congress might well reexamine present taxes to see if they include business deterrents that should be removed.

The immediate congressional reaction was that taxes cannot be lowered as long as spending continues at anything like its present pace.

Seen Business Stimulator.

From Morgenthau's reversal of position it appeared that his latest tax statement was par of a new administration effort to woo business co-operation. The administration, he said, "wants business to go ahead with normal risks—wants them to make money."

Morgenthau's January testimony was given before a house committee considering the treasury department appropriations. The record of that testimony was made public today. It showed that Rep. Louis Ludlow, D., Ind., asked the secretary:

"Dd you see any current necessity for an increase of taxes, or is the present tax base broad enough to take care of the situation?"

Morgenthau replied:

"The present tax base will produce revenue . . . which gives an estimated deficit in the fiscal year 1940 of $3,300,000,000.

"As the president pointed out in the budget message, there are two items to be considered: Last year congress appropriated $212,000,000 for parity payments, with some kind of inference or promise that somewhere along the line congress would vote sufficient revenue to make that up. He also indicated that additional expenditures should be made for national defense, which would be an amount out of pocket so to speak, of over $200,000,000 in the coming year, and he indicated that congress might want to provide taxes to make that up.

"So somewhere between $400,000,000 and $450,000,000 of new taxes are indicated," Morgenthau said.

Business Awaits Hopkins Speech In Iowa Tonight

DES MOINES, Ia.—(U.P.)—Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins holds out the New Deal's olive branch to business in his first major speech as a cabinet member tonight.

Hopkins will speak under auspices of the Des Moines Economic club, a select, non-partisan discussion group of business and professional men.

Reports from Washington conflicted as to its probable content. Some said Hopkins would emphasize a need for good feeling between business and government. Others said he would offer a specific program, including tax revision, a New Deal for utilities and railroads and a revision of labor policies.

The political significance of his choice of Des Moines for delivery of the speech created nearly as much speculation as its content. Iowa is his home state—he is a native of Grinnell—and a report has persisted during the past week that he has been dickering for support in Iowa as a 1940 presidential candidate, despite denials of Iowa Democrats involved and a statement from Hopkins that he wouldn't "dignify" the report with comment.

And then there was the amateur photographer, who wanted some really good pictures of a dinner party his wife was giving, so he borrowed a large camera, flash synchronizer and tripod, posed the group prettily at the dinner table and at the right moment shot the picture. A moment later he discovered he had failed to pull the slide from in front of the film, and had no picture. So he tried again. This time he pulled the slide all right, but absent-mindedly took the plate-holder out of the camera without replacing the slide. Score: Two shots, no pictures, two errors. So he gave up, figuring that he might use a dozen flash bulbs before he did everything right.

Mansfield concert goers would like to hear a string ensemble on next season's Civic Music concert programs, according to the ballots turned in last night at Senior High school auditorium after the Zimbalist concert. The ballots contained preferences for the type of music to be heard next season and the board of directors will be governed by these when selecting talent. While many persons did not turn in their ballots, they can still be marked and mailed to the Civic Music association, care of the Ohio Fuel Gas company office, which will be headquarters for the membership drive next month.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston never hedges when he is faced with a problem in court, but when he was asked yesterday afternoon to determine the proper combination of colors for a rug, he decided it was time to call a halt. He made an attempt at it, however, and got down on his knees in the sheriff's office to get a closer view of the situation. The maze of colors woven into the hand-made rug by Miss Lena Longsdorf, secretary to the sheriff, was too much. "Sometimes, I don't even know blue from green, so why should I be a judge in this matter?" he asked.

ACCIDENT TRAPS KILLER SUSPECT

(By International News Service)

CHICAGO — Trapped by a minor traffic accident as, police charged, he fled from the scene of the crime, Frank Carson, kidnaper and former convict, today was held for the alleged murder of his wife.

Carson was arrested several miles from their flat in suburban Cicero when he became blinded in yesterday's snowstorm and his car rammed into the rear end of another at a traffic light.

Giving the alias of Jeffries which he had used since being released from Leavenworth penitentiary in January, he promised to pay for the damage, but the owner of the other car demanded his arrest.

The policeman, after putting Carson in a cell, drove to the prisoner's Cicero address to check up on his identity. There he found several police and detective squads.

Inside the flat was the body of Mrs. Helen Carson, 33, and her daughter by a previous marriage, Betty June, 14. The girl accused her step-father of strangling her mother because of supposed friendship with other men.

"That's what happens to people who break faith with me'."

Afterward, she said, he forced her to cook his supper and then took the car and drove away. She said she had notified police as soon as he was out of sight.

Carson, refusing to explain bloodstains on his shirt and trousers, said only that he had never harmed his wife.

126 AT COURT

Parents Defy Cold for Scout Honor Ceremony.

Although the temperature was down to seven degrees above zero last night, 126 parents attended the Boy Scout court of honor at the Elks home, the largest crowd to witness a local court in a number of years.

During the ceremonies 10 scouts were advanced to the rank of First class scout, 33 were given the rank of Second class scout, and 54 other youths were presented with merit badges.

The ceremonies were presided over by L. A. Ott, president of the Johnny Appleseed area council, who presented the First class ranks; W. J. Bissman, who awarded the Second class ranks; J. Leo Hartman, chairman of the court, who presented the merit badges; Philip Smith, scribe, and C. G. Silcott, commissioner.

Ashland County Resident Dies In Home Near Loudonville.

LOUDONVILLE — Miss Mabel Maxwell, 40, died early today at her home three miles north of here on the Ashland road after a brief illness.

She was the daughter of Amos and Elanna Priest Maxwell and was born in Greene township, Ashland county.

She is survived by her father, a sister and two brothers, Mrs. Herbert Long and Leo of Loudonville, and Wirt Maxwell of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m., Sunday, at the Gilbert funeral home with Rev. F. A. Hinman of the Methodist church and Rev. G. H. Volpitto of the Presbyterian church, officiating. Burial will be made in the Loudonville cemetery.

100 HEAR TALKS

Horse Breeders Association Holds Annual Meeting Here.

Nearly 100 members of the Richland County Horse-breeders' association heard talks by Dr. Frank Carr, state veterinarian; Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston, and H. L. Bigbee of Bellville at their annual dinner last night at the First U. B. church.

L. P. McCann of Ohio State university was toastmaster. The program included readings by Esther Lantz of Mansfield and piano numbers by Roy Hendrickson of Springfield township.

EXTENDS PERIOD

With approximately 60 per cent of the 3,700 garbage collection bills still outstanding, Fred E. Lingafelter, secretary of the water, sewer and garbage departments today announced a half-day extension of the collection period.

Lingafelter said that due to the holiday Wednesday, offices of his department in the city building will remain open until 4 p. m. Saturday to receive payment of garbage collection bills which to date total only $3,000 of the $7,000 billing.

VALUE OF COUNTY LIVESTOCK KEEPS PACE WITH STATE GAIN

The value of livestock in Richland county showed a marked increase last year over 1937 while farm animals in Ohio increased $1,000,000 in value, it was revealed today.

While definite figures for the county were not available, County Agent George B. Ganyard said the number of hogs and cattle increased noticeably in the county in 1938, boosting the total value despite a slight decline in the per head value.

He attributed the increase to a large feed supply last fall which caused farmers to obtain more animals to consume the feed.

Ideal growing conditions last season produced a surplus of nearly all feeds which farmers use for fattening livestock for market, the county agent said. There was a slight increase in the number of chickens, he said, but a lower price offset the increase in number.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting service estimated the value of all Ohio livestock at $188,059,000 and poultry at $16,293,000, about $800,000 lower than in 1937.

Cattle increased three per cent in number in the state during 1938 and swine decreased five per cent, according to the inventory. The number of horses, sheep and mules declined two per cent each.

It was estimated that Ohio had 2,030,000 head of cattle and calves on Jan. 1 this year as compared with 1,970,000 in 1937. The value of young cows increased from an average of $56 to $58.

Hogs and pigs were estimated at 2,737,000 in the state in 1938 as compared with 2,607,000 a year ago. Their value was up nearly $2,000,000, but lower valuations for other animals cut the total for all livestock to about $1,000,000 increase.

ILL WEEK, DIES

David Weirick, Monroe Native, Suffered Stroke.

LUCAS—David H. Weirick, 75, a native of Monroe township, died last night at his home seven miles south of here, as the result of a stroke. He had been ill for the past week.

Born Oct. 23, 1863, three miles east of here, Mr. Weirick had spent his entire life in Monroe township.

Surviving are his wife Laura; a son Paul of Mansfield; four daughters, Mrs. E. R. Miller, Painesville, Mrs. Charles Schrack, Mrs. Grover C. Snyder; and Mrs. Marvin Berry all of Monroe township; two brothers, Frank of Perrysville and Bentley of Washington township; three sisters, Mrs. James Stafford of Mansfield, Mrs. Grant Weddell of north of Mansfield, and Mrs. Frank Ernsberger of Ashland; 12 grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Sunday at the Pleasant Valley Lutheran church south of Lucas, with Rev. Carl Driscoll officiating. Burial will be in Pleasant Valley cemetery. The body will be at the Bierly funeral home in Lucas until Saturday morning, when it will be removed to the family home.

LAFF-A-DAY

"Henry and I were just hoping someone would drop in with an evening to kill."

CLAIM 'RIPPER' WOULD SPEED UP MACHINERY

Revised Legislation Would Oust Myrna Smith; Goes to House Next Week.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS—Republicans would gain control of the state parole board and machinery for paroling inmates of Ohio's penal institutions would be geared for higher speed by a proposed reorganization bill to be offered in the house of representatives next week.

Rep. Henry H. Metcalf (R-Franklin) today put finishing touches on the bill, a substitute for one he previously introduced. The new measure, expected to receive administration support, would come up for a hearing in the house judiciary committee March 7.

The bill would abolish the present four-member board and replace it with a three-member pardon and parole commission. Like its predecessor the measure was aimed at removal of former Gov. Martin L. Davey's personal secretary, Mrs. Myrna Smith, whom he named to the board before leaving office.

Sit Alone At Hearings.

The commission could designate its members to sit alone at hearings, and their ifndings and recommendations, when approved by the commission, would carry the authority of the full body.

The full membership of the present board now sits at hearings.

By dividing the work of the paroling authority, the output of paroles could be almost doubled.

Delay in handling of paroles long has been a cause for complaint by prisoners and members of their families, although the work has been expedited since Davey reorganized the board more than a year ago.

Members of the new commission would be paid $6,000 a year, the salary received by the present board members They would hire an administrative secretary at $4,250 a year.

The commission would be empowered to summon witnesses and compel their attendance. Proceedings would be public records.

Metcalf's substitute bill carries an emergency clause asserting the change should go into effect immediately "because of certain alleged irregularities charged against the board of parole, which culminated in a grand jury investigation under the attorney general and a consequent loss of public confidence in such board."

The investigation, however, was launched before Davey reorganized the board.

MEET IN GALION

Mansfielders Attend Traffic Club Dinner Session.

A number of Mansfielders were in Galion last night to attend a dinner meeting of the Central Ohio Traffic club at the Elks' hall.

Principal speaker at the session was A. Fitzgerald of the Cleveland office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Approximately 135 club members and guests from cities within a radius of 50 miles of Galion and several guest traffic managers from Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus attended the dinner.

On the committee in charge of the meeting were George A. Swineford of the Empire Sheet and Tin Plate company, Mansfield, president of the club; W. J. Brennan of Cleveland, vice president; C. D. Smith of Cleveland, secretary-treasurer; C. I. Howman, Glenn R. McNabb and Forrest Gale, all of Galion.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Stand of Father Coughlin For Patriotism Revives Last Century's Sentiments

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Father Coughlin's patriotic stand against those who would involve this country in a war with a foreign nation to avenge wrongs in the Old World is a revival of the sentiment of many native Americans in the middle part of the last century.

Irish refugees from poverty, hunger and political and religious persecution fled to this country and colonized in the urban centers. They did not take readily to farming, but had a lively political instinct, and native patriots charged that they voted in powerful, clannish blocs in the cities.

They were regarded as an alien influence in American political life, and the Catholic church was similarly suspected in New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

The principal objects of that wrath were immigrants who, in paraphrase of today's label, could have been called the International Irishmen.

The Irish refugees of those days, men and women of the same faith and stock from which Father Coughlin himself has sprung, were hated like the Jewish refugees of the present. Election frauds and immigration frauds were bitterly resented by the native Americans as politicians exploited the refugees to thwart native proposals and defeat their tickets at the polls.

The bill against the Irish and, of course, the Catholics—for they were almost all Catholic—also accused them of carrying into their new life here their active hatred of a foreign nation with which this country was on friendly terms.

It was argued that immigrants who took citizenship here had no right to imperil the life of their new country by activities which might involve the United States in a war with Great Britain.

Many Irishmen who became American citizens remained Irishmen at heart and plotted war and other mischief against Great Britain here. In 1867, in Philadelphia, 6,000 Irish-American Fenian soldiers, armed and uniformed, marched in a parade, an incident which, were it duplicated today by 6,000 American Jews as a threat to Germany, would be sure to arouse great indignation in Father Coughlin.

This parade occurred about 18 months after John O'Neill had actually led an armed Irish-American invasion of Canada, in which Ft. Erie was captured.

Accounts of this act of war by immigrant, international Irishmen differ. The Encyclopaedia Britannica, not unnaturally, says that after the surprise capture of Ft. Erie, many of O'Neill's men deserted, that a battalion of Canadian volunteers routed the remainder at Ridgeway, and that the survivors surrendered to the United States ship Michigan after President Johnson disowned the war on behalf of the United States.

But, in "Speeches From the Dock," a patriotic Irish book, one reads that after Ft. Erie, the International Irishmen licked a regiment of the queen's own Canadian volunteers from Toronto at Ridgeway, and probably "would have swept Canada and made that country their base of operations against British power in Ireland" but for the interference of the United States government.

In 1870, the same O'Neill again led a force of International Irishmen against a friendly neighbor in a foray from Franklin, Vt.

The American natives didn't like this any more than Father Coughlin now likes the Jewish propaganda against the Nazis.

Yet, if the International Irish had been handled as Father Coughlin's political comrades today propose to handle Jews who are similarly international, this country might have been denied the spiritual and intellectual benefit of his counsel. That is something to think about one way or another.

Hollywood Speaks—

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Confessions of a Hollywood spy in South America, or Good Neighbors and Newsreels:

"I go to the movies frequently in my little Argentinian town. The cinema is the delight of us Americans there, and of the native sons also.

"The Hollywood features are liked generally, although there is still some confusion among the non-English-speaking residents when Hollywood sends them drawing-room dramas or stories in which much depends on dialogue. This is true even though the actors' speeches are translated, through written titles, at the bottom of the screen. Hence pictures which English-speaking fans enjoy on their merits are practically lost on other patrons.

"The features with American settings, purporting to show American life, are accepted by now as fiction—and allowance is made for them. I mean few South American fans—in our community at least—believe that the United States is entirely a land of gangsters where blood runs in the streets constantly, or that all the people of this country live as lavishly as some of the screen stories would indicate, or in as great hardship as some others would imply. They accept these stories as based on phases of our life in the United States. . . .

"The newsreels, however—ah! the newsreels are gospel. They are fact, and so—

"We Americans go to the theater, and we squirm in anticipation as the newsreel flashes on. What horror shall we see tonight?

"Sometimes it is a hog-calling contest—this reached its zenith in clips on a contest to determine which United States mother could summon her offspring in the loudest voice.

"Then the wrestling bouts—between women wrestlers. They are amusing to fans in this country, and are presented for laughs. But how the natives talk. Those North American women, they say, what will they do next?

"And the jitterbug contests. More than once we have sat through newsreels showing the gyrations of United States boys and girls caught in the throes of swing fever, and our ears have burned. Around us we hear exclamations: 'What horrible people! Do they ALL dance that way! Is there no dignity left among our northern neighbors?' . . .

"We have a commission here, my husband and I. As we travel about the country, we are to observe—for our friends back there—whether the ballrooms are given over to the jitterbugs, whether all of us really dance so wildly. They really want to know. . . .

"So far, though we have danced in New York and Chicago and San Francisco, we have seen nothing to compare with the frenzy the newsreels send down there. We understand, of course, that the newsreels present these things for their news value, because they are unusual. But our South American friends, I'm afraid, accept them as typical pictures of life among their good neighbors . . . and why must it be so?"

Where Does He Stand?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A few days ago I succeeded in meeting the girl I've wanted to meet for a long time. She is very nice and comes from a well-to-do family. We come in contact with each other in business almost every day, and seem to get along "swell." All my friends, who know her, tell me she is going "steady," and some even go so far as to say she's engaged to another man.

However, she leads me to believe she likes me a great deal. How do I go about finding out whether she's going "steady" or is engaged? I don't intend to even try to break up her friendship with another man

A. S. F.

If you find yourself actually falling in love with this girl, why not ask her the direct question· Are you engaged? It's a mistake to let one's self become more involved in a love affair, without knowing where one stands, when a word or two would settle the question.

Perspiration Has Many Causes

By MME. QUI VIVE

Beautifying isn't just surface decoration these days. We know that health has much to do with appearance, and we try to dig down to causes. It is the sensible way to handle pulchritude problems. Dig 'em up, shake 'em out, look 'em over.

There is the matter of excessive perspiration, a trouble that interferes with business and social life. Ordinary cases can be corrected by the daily bath, and faithfulness to deterrents. But there are other cases that are baffling. Skin moisture continues despite hygienic attentions. When ordinary treatments fail to correct an excessive condition, a physician should be consulted.

Scrupulous cleanliness is necessary for health and self respect. The sweat glands pour forth chemicals which in even a few hours may be very offensive. Dead skin scales add to the debacle and a certain amount of dust is collected. The daily bath should not be a casual shower or a leap-in-and-out of the tub, but a vigorous scouring with soap, warm water and a brush that takes hold like a guilty conscience. Sloshing a soaped wash cloth over the flesh does not make for a thorough renovating.

A clear water massage, dipping the hands in clear water and rubbing the flesh vigorously with the palms, loosens skin scales that are shedding. A soapy bath should follow.

Cosmetic chemists have produced a great number of preparations to be used under the arms where sweat glands are largest and most active These offerings come in various forms—liquids, solids, creamy substances. If one doesn't work, another will. Directions with these aids should be followed to the letter.

Hints on Etiquette.

If you are giving a dinner or card party where you must have an even number of men and women, and one of your expected guests has to send regrets at the last moment, it is correct to call on some one you know well, but who wasn't included in the first invitation. Explain the situation to him or her, and ask their acceptance as substitute as a special favor to you.

My Neighbor Says:

When hanging short window curtains it will be found an excellent plan to invest in small staples. These driven into woodwork or wall, hold rods firmly in place. If tapes are used, they may be drawn through the staples and fixed so firmly that there is no chance of the "droop" which so often spoils the effect of otherwise attractive curtains.

Carrots are a valuable source of calcium and vitamins. Older carrots should be cooked. Younger ones may be scraped and served in strips or grated. Calcium is needed for teeth and bone structure. It also regulates heart action and helps to keep the blood normal.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

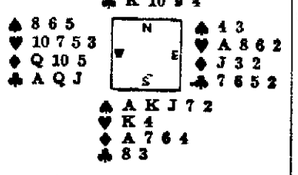
Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A PILE OF NICKELS

SOMEBODY ASKS IF you have a dollar with you. When you feel in your pocket and look in your wallet, you find not a solitary silver dollar or bill. But you do find a whole pocketful of nickels, dimes and quarters. You can't very well tell your friend then that you haven't a dollar—that is, unless you are trying to duck a "touch."

It is the same in bridge. A handful of kings, queens and jacks can be a whole lot better than one which contains a couple of aces and then drops down to small spot cards



(Dealer: West. North-South vulnerable).

At every table of a duplicate game, South made a fourth-hand opening of 1-Spade on this deal. Then things varied. At one table a North player who likes aces didn't think very much of his cards. He bid a mere 1-No trump and South passed, for bottom score—pretty bad bidding for both partners.

In another case, North responded with 2-No Trump and his willful partner jumped to 4-Spades. Still another development came in North responding to the 1-Spade with 2-Clubs. When South then rebid a 2-Spades, North hopped into 3-No trump and was allowed to play it there. Top score came at the table where, after North's 2-Clubs, South bid 2-No trump and North 3-No trump, not necessarily better bidding than that of the pair just before mentioned, but this South gave the hand a better play and got a little help too.

West led the heart 3 to the A, and East switched to a club to the A. Then West switched again to the diamond 5 the J falling to the A. Followed then the heart K, diamond K, heart J and five spades. As the last was played, West had to choose either his diamond Q as a discard or a club from the Q-J. If the former, dummy's 9 would be set up, so he picked a club and the club K-10 made the last two tricks, for five-odd.

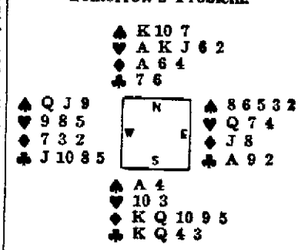
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer, North North-South vulnerable).

Why is it better in some respects to bid only 2-Diamonds in the South in response to North's 1-Heart, and why better in some respects to bid 3-Diamonds.

How To Live
Happily Ever After

There are some 26,000,000 couples living in various degrees of marital bliss in the United States. And there are several million more people who wants to marry, but are being cautious

To help such perplexed individuals, we asked psychologists, ministers, physicians and marriage counselors to reply to the questions these cautious ones most frequently ask. Their answers will be presented in 12 articles, of which this is the first.

By LYDIA GRAY SHAW

(AP Feature Service Writer)

MARRIAGE may be a fine institution—but there are plenty of people who aren't cut out for it.

This may shock the true believers who think anyone is better off married than single. But Dr. Ira S. Wile, New York psychiatrist, admonishes them to face facts.

"We no longer are living in an age when we believe marriages are made in heaven," Dr. Wile asserts. "We know they're made on earth by humans who only recently have acquired the privilege of self-selection. But they still haven't learned to select rightly."

Six Types to Avoid.

According to Dr. Wile, who has made many statistical studies of divorced individuals during his years of mental hygiene study, there are six types of individuals to avoid if you're thinking about matrimony.

Don't marry a man who wants dinner on the dot.

First, the one—male or female—who thinks so well of himself that he doesn't dream he has any flaws. The other person is always wrong, he is always right. If he marries—Heaven forbid—he'll be the domineering, aggressive type, who lords it over a weakling wife (or husband), squabbles about trifles, always has his own way.

The individual who realizes his wants are so numerous that never will he be able to find any person able to fill them is another tough character. He's super-meticulous, fussy. Must have his dinner on the dot of seven or his day is ruined. Or can't stand an ash tray out of place—if a lady. No good for a marriage partner.

The Psychopathics.

As difficult as either of these is the person who thinks he's quite average, but has something so bizarre in his nature that he'd be impossible to live with. Maybe it's a case of not shaving for a couple of weeks, just to be different. Maybe it's something more serious.

Another bad bet for matrimony is the person who over-emphasizes family responsibility. Perhaps he (or she—all these work both ways) has been supporting a widowed mother for so long he feels she won't live happily unless he dashes over to see her every day. His wife is relegated to second place—and will always stay there.

The psychopathic personality—long on freedom, short on responsibility—would drive any marriage partner to drink in no time. Charming, agreeable people, these psychopathic personalities, but always sliding out from under responsibility. You can't grab hold of them. They find it hard to accept prevailing conditions and conventions And you would find them even harder to live with.

Finally, there's the individual who marries to get a nurse. Plenty do it. But it's too much to expect a wife or a husband to sacrifice all on the altar of the other's health. The moral is, says Dr. Wile—don't fall in love with an incurable invalid.

Next: "At What Age Should I I Marry?"

Don't Wed Your Ideal

Don't marry your ideal. You'll always try to fit him into a picture he can't get into.

Don't forget a man usually puts his job first, his wife second.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I remember so clearly every event of that day," he said. "As if my childish mind had been sharpened by terror, I sensed that beneath the professional poise of everyone connected with the castle there was horror, shock and grief as well as curiosity.

"But, of course, outwardly there was no betrayal of emotion. There was great activity, however, in every corner of the establishment, although it was not until years later that I realized what the news of the night's tragedy had meant to the royal family.

"Fortunately, the mother of the king and of his brother, my father, was dead, buried by the side of her husband, the former king. There was no sister, and the men of the family were made of stern stuff. Nobody knew, they told me later, what the king had felt when the news came, although he might well have been crazed with remorse because his ultimatum had driven his brother to death. He had uttered no word, betrayed no emotion, but a minute or two later had gone to his room where he had shut himself up for an hour. When he emerged, he had taken up the burden of minimizing the awful affair as much as possible for the family and the country.

"That my coming was expected even a child could see I also saw that it was only in a very limited circle that I was expected. My nurse and I were fairly smuggled in by what I later knew was the entrance to the private rooms of the king's family. We were taken directly to a large suite upon an upper floor, around which my nurse looked critically as soon as we were left alone with our luggage.

"'It will do very well,' she said, and I noticed that she had difficulty in getting words out. Indeed, all that day and for a long time afterward she always seemed on the verge of tears, although I never saw her shed any. But she had been very fond of my mother, and I know now that the strain of keeping me from guessing the truth must have been terrible for her.

"I saw nobody except her that day, for she kept me out of sight even when the serving men brought our meals, dismissing them, and waiting upon me herself. But the next morning came a summons that made her go suddenly white and trembling.

"'It's the king,' she said. 'He wants to see you'

"'You mean my uncle?' I said, almost mechanically repeating the words I had heard my father speak two nights before in my 'nightmare.'

"Into my nurse's eyes flashed a look of the most abject terror I ever have witnessed. She looked wildly about the apartment to see that no one was within hearing. Then she flew to the door like a wild thing, locked it, and came rushing back to me. She caught me by the shoulders and looked down into my eyes.

"'Don't ever say that word again,' she adjured me. 'Where did you get it?'

"Her fright infected me I realized one thing: The word 'uncle' was forbidden. I must never, never, reveal what I had heard upon that night of my 'nightmare.'

"'I guess I must have dreamed it,' I mumbled. 'But if it's naughty to say it, I promise you I never will say it again.'

"She caught me to her in a strangling embrace.

"'It isn't naughty, darling, but it's dangerous. They might kill you for it,' she whispered. 'Don't ever say it again, will you?'"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Feb. 25.

A MEMORABLE day is heralded by the interesting and exciting influence of major planets. There may be sudden and surprising events, precipitated with whirlwind force and, while devastating and disturbing, the after-effects will be propitious. There should be much productive work, with the fruition of long-cherished hopes and wishes.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of advancement toward the fulfillment of fond hopes and wishes. Prosperous, productive and happy denouements are to follow sudden and devastating visitations of an unpredictable nature, but after the upheaval there will be rich culminations of cherished objectives. It is a most propitious time for pushing in the direction of high goals.

A child born on this day is likely to be a rather unusual individual. It may be expansive, independent in thought and action, with high ambitions and noble aspirations.

To prepare raisins for use in cakes, cookies or breads cover them with hot water and simmer them for about five minutes. The water will enlarge and soften them.

CHERRY MUFFINS
Tender, spicy, with sugar-frosted tops

2½ cups sifted flour
3½ teaspoons baking powder
½ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
⅓ cup Spry, melted
½ cup red pitted cherries, drained

Sift flour with baking powder, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Combine beaten egg, milk and melted Spry.

Turn liquids into dry ingredients and stir vigorously until all flour is dampened. The batter will look lumpy. (Don't overstir.) Pour batter into muffin pans greased with Spry. Put 3 cherries in center of each muffin and sprinkle generously with sugar

Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 12 large muffins. Notice how extra-light and tender muffins are, made this easy Spry way.

FEBRUARY MARRIAGE REVEALED AT PARTY

ANNOUNCEMENT of the recent marriage of Miss Virginia Frye and Dr. Riley E. Frush was made yesterday evening, when the bride's mother, Mrs. H. W. Frye entertained in her honor at the Susie Janis home on Park avenue west road. The date of the wedding, Feb. 4, 1939, was revealed on streamers attached to miniature colonial bouquets which marked the places of the guests at the luncheon table later in the evening.

The former Miss Frye, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Frye, 26 Wolfe avenue, became the bride of Dr. Frush at the Calvary Presbyterian church in Cleveland on Feb. 4. Rev. G. H. Higley, pastor of that church, performed the single ring ceremony. Two former schoolmates of the couple, Miss Dorothy Sutherin and Dr. Robert Morgan, both of Cleveland, were the attendants.

Graduated Here.

The bride is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and the School of Nursing at St. Luke's hospital in Cleveland. Since her graduation from the hospital in 1936, Mrs. Frush has been doing private duty nursing. She is a member of Gamma chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority.

Dr. Frush, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Frush of Willard, was graduated from Northwestern university and Northwestern University Medical school. While attending the university, he was affiliated with Acacia and Phi Beta Pi fraternities. Dr. Frush served his internship at St. Luke's hospital and is now the resident physician at Mansfield General hospital. The couple will make their home with the bride's parents for the present.

Bridge was in play at four tables during the last evening's party, when the theme of spring and flowers formed a pleasant contrast to the blizzard outside. The bridge tallies had tiny floral bouquets on them, and the long table, at which refreshments were served was centered with a low arrangement of pink, orchid, white and salmon sweetpeas.

There was a small colonial bouquet at each of the guests' places, and the table was lighted with tall white tapers and decorated with tulle and fern. Prizes in the evening's bridge games were awarded to Mrs. Joseph Kemp and Miss Susan Anderson. Mrs. Frye presented the honoree with a gift of linen.

Mrs. Frush will be feted with a shower on March 9 at the home of Miss Eileen Logan on South Main street. Associate hostesses for the occasion will be Miss Miriam Frietchen, Mrs. Howard Yarnell, Mrs. Jack McKnight and Mrs. William Terry.

GO TO MT. VERNON.

Members of the Women of the Moose have been invited to attend the public initiation service of the Mt. Vernon lodge on March 9, it was announced yesterday.

SOCIETY & CLUBS

Luncheon Served To Mansfield Club

A 1 p. m. luncheon was served at a long table decorated with a bowl of pink roses yesterday when Mrs. Julius Weber entertained members of the Timely Topics club at the Towne House. After luncheon the 12 members went to the Weber home on West First street where Mrs. John Massa conducted a business meeting.

Mrs. George Wintersteen was in charge of the program, and she talked on "Notable Catholic Authors" giving biographical data on Hilliare Belloc, Gilbert Chesterton, Kathleen Norris, Agnes Repplier and Alfred J. Kilmer.

A general discussion followed, and it was then announced that Mrs. Frank Mahoney would entertain March 9 at her Sherman avenue home.

Officers Elected At Needlecraft Session

Mrs. Brainard Hoffer was elected president of the Needlecraft club yesterday afternoon when 12 members of that group met at the home of Mrs. Bert Velzy, 21 Blecker street. Mrs. Albert Bowersock was chosen to serve as the new secretary, and Mrs. Roy Crider will be the treasurer.

Two guests, Mrs. Leonard Rider and Miss Florence Michalski, were present for the meeting when the members played games and contests and quilted. The afternoon's prizes were awarded to Mrs. Crider and Mrs. John Schnorr. The club will meet again on March 9 at the home of Mrs. Belle Arnold in Garden Acres.

Birthday Party Given For Pocahontas Lodge

There were 33 members of the Pocahontas lodge in attendance at a birthday party of that organization last evening at Eagles hall. Mrs. J. W. Weil and Mrs. Frances Wolfe were in charge of arrangements for the affair.

After the short business session, conducted by Mrs. Martha Rogers, the group played five hundred and bunco. Mrs. Nannie Lowman, Mrs. Ann Weaver, Mrs. Clara Weaver and Mrs. Lulu Ameter won the prizes. Refreshments were served at the close of the evening. The next regular meeting of the lodge will be held in Eagles hall on March 9.

Several Parties Given In Honor of Mansfielders, Guest

IN THE past two days several parties have been given to entertain Mansfielders. Last night 16 members of the Auxiliary to the Master Plumbers and their husbands gave a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Alex Grassick, East Fourth street. Chinese checkers were played, and the guest of honor was presented with a gift by the hostesses.

* * *

Last night Miss Edna Bookwalter, who was celebrating her 18th birthday, was surprised at a family dinner party given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Bookwalter, Glessner avenue. On Wednesday afternoon she was also feted by a group of classmates who called at her home. Mrs. Bookwalter served a luncheon at a table decorated with George Washington appointments, and a birthday cake.

* * *

Another party, although not in celebration of a birthday, was the affair given Wednesday by Mrs. Blaine Johnson, Ashland road. Mrs. Johnson entertained several friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Emmet A. Miller, Middleton. Guests included Mrs. Howard Miller, Mrs. Charles Ray, Mrs. F. B. Risley, Mrs. Linnie Mae Decker, Mrs. Kenneth Cooke, Perrysville, and Mrs. Job Hess, Lucas.

Complete Arrangements For Tea To Be Given Sunday

COMMITTEES for the musicale and tea to be given by the glee club of the Business and Professional Womens club this Sunday afternoon were disclosed this morning, as final plans were announced by officers of the organization. The affair, which will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel at 4 p. m., will feature Miss Charlet Cellars, flutist, and S. K. Jorgenson, violinist.

The sale of tickets is in charge of Mrs. Falsom B. Teeter assisted by Margaret Wheeler. Tickets for the event, which is open to the public, may be obtained from either of these women or from other members of the organization, or at the door Sunday afternoon.

Those who will receive members and guests at the ballroom door are Dorothy Claus, Fanny Ray, Julia BeVier and Pearl Wierman. The ushers are Irma Augustine, Esther Snyder, Marguerite Speas and Mildred Parry.

Tea will be poured following the program by Laura Konrad and Florence Young.

An invitation to attend the Galion intercity dinner meeting March 9 at the Parish house was also announced. Miss H. Pearl Von Au, state president from Cleveland, will be guest speaker, and a one-act play will be presented by the Galion Drama Workshop players. Miss Marjorie High, transportation chairman, is in charge of arrangements.

The next regular meeting of the group will be the birthday party meeting March 8 at which time the club will celebrate its 15th anniversary of organization. Dr. C. L. Anspach, president of Ashland college, will be the guest speaker. Those in charge of arrangements are Bertha Reinewald, Emma Reinewald, Teresa Pfeifer, Helen Herring, Flora Lentzy, Pearl Wierman and Adelaide Underwood.

HAVE MEETING.

Mrs. Alex Grassick, East Fourth street, was hostess to 11 members and one guest, Miss Thelma Fritchen. Luncheon was served and Chinese checkers were played in the afternoon. Prizes went to Mrs. P. M. Frye, Mrs. H. J. Hoffman, Mrs. H. Scott, Mrs. E. Ovarly. The next meeting will be March 30 with Mrs. Frye.

Entertain Members of South Main Church Class

The February meeting of the Christian Home Builders class of the South Main Street Evangelical church was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Burke Schnittke, South Diamond street. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Robinson were the associate hosts.

Committees for the remainder of this year were selected during the meeting, presided over by Arthur Schnittke, vice president. A social hour followed with a buffet luncheon at the close. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Minard and Mr. and Mrs. Burk Brewer will entertain in March.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. Stander, 475 Marion avenue, left this week for the west coast where they will spend several weeks, visiting in Los Angeles and at the San Francisco exposition.

* * *

Mrs. Regina Gresser, Mrs. Elmira Caughtery, and Mrs. Bertha Coleman, members of the Academy of Friendship of the Women of the Moose, attended a regular meeting of the Galion lodge last night.

KID PARTY.

A "kid party" was held last night by members of the Semper Fidelis class of the South Main Street Evangelical church at the home of Mrs. Robert Herrold, 05 Sturges avenue. After the business meeting, games were played and pictures of the guests taken. Mrs. Charles Miller won the costume prize. A luncheon was served at the close of the session.

GROUP SEWS.

There were 16 members of the Sewing group of the First Congregational church. Mrs. Arthur Cline, chairman, was in charge of the meeting, and Miss Effie Snyder supervised the sewing done by the group. Luncheon was served at 1 p. m. with Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson, Mrs. V. R. Sparks and Mrs. Fannie Carrier in charge. The next meeting is March 16.

HAVE PARTY.

A party was given for the Daughters of Scotland last night by Mrs. Thomas Wilson, Sloane avenue. Prizes were won by Mrs. Charles Edmondstone, Mrs. William Ferguson, Mrs. John Hilson, Mrs. Thomas McCartney and Miss Mary McCartney. A buffet luncheon was then served from a table decorated with snapdragons.

Church Circles Conduct Regular Business Meets

Two of the circles from the Park Avenue Baptist church conducted meetings yesterday at homes of the members. Circle One was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. Charles Keller, 123 North Mulberry street, when 10 members and one guest gathered for a session. Mrs. Wallace Campbell conducted a business meeting, and Mrs. George Vawter led the devotions. In the afternoon members served for the hospital. No place was announced, but the next meeting will be March 21.

* * *

Mrs. Charles Swisher, South Boulevards, entertained 11 members of Circle Three at her home. A talk on the first book of the Bible was given by Mrs. Charles Abele, and Miss Elizabeth Hulit led the devotions. The next meeting will be March 24 with Mrs. Clair Casto, South Main street.

Entertain Guests At Session of Aid Group

Three out-of-town guests, Mrs. J. L. Banks and Mrs. T. W. Loomis, of Canton, and Mrs. Richard Eberhardt of Loudonville, were present for a meeting of the Women's Aid of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. W. Wolfe, 405 West Fifth street. Mrs. Charles Collier and Mrs. L. L. Wolf served at the associate hostesses.

Mrs. E. W. High conducted the business session, at which time, Mrs. J. C. Trine was received as a new member of the organization. Cootie was the diversion of the afternoon and prizes were won by Mrs. A. J. Jesson and Mrs. Thomas Reader. Patriotic appointments were used later when refreshments were served. Mrs. Franklin Haupt will entertain the group March 23 at her home, 483 Park View street.

Honor Chapter Pledge At Party Last Night

Miss Thelma Derr, who was recently pledged to Beta chapter of the Gamma Gamma Gamma sorority, was the guest of honor at a party given by that chapter at the home of Miss Virginia Chew on Highland avenue yesterday evening. The chapter will have formal initiation services for Miss Derr Sunday afternoon, followed by a tea at Miss Eleanor Clingan's home on Vennum avenue.

Bridge was the diversion at last evening's party, and later refreshments were served, buffet style. The table was lighted with tall red tapers and decorated with a floral centerpiece. The next regular meeting of the chapter will be with Mrs. Clare Bell at her home on Maple street.

Informally Speaking...

SOUTHERN VACATIONERS: Herbert Schettler, Henry Huston, Dr. O. H. Schettler and Dr. W. H. Buker of Bellville are down in Florida now. . . . They drove down recently with the express purpose of fishing and golfing—and they won't be back until they've had enough of both. . . . They've been to West Palm Beach and Hollywood already—and plan to travel to all the rest of the Florida cities which offer good golf courses. . . . Some other Mansfielders are vacationing at the "City of 100 Lakes" these days—Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Constance and Mrs. E. C. Bonant are spending two weeks in Winter Haven, Fla.

WHEN the pledges of Chi Sigma sorority were asked to perform for the active members the other night, they willingly (?) obliged with an old-fashioned mellerdrammer—in pantomime. . . . The playlet was almost side-splitting with such idle gestures as the villain stamping his feet by pasting stamps on the soles of his shoes—and when the hero pressed the heroine's hand, he did it with a flatiron!

* * *

Swimming in the blue waters off the coast of Miami Wednesday morning . . . back in the thick of an Ohio blizzard Wednesday evening. Modern transportation did that for Dr. Arthur Sprecher—who has just returned from a three-week Florida vacation. He couldn't resist just one more plunge Wednesday morning before starting home by plane. That was at 8 a. m. and at 7 p. m. he was in Cincinnati—where a blizzard was raging. Mrs. Sprecher is staying over in Cincinnati for a few days, and Art came home yesterday, sporting a grand suntan.

YOU might say that Helen (Schroer) Weldon made her debut at the Zimbalist concert at the high school last evening. Helen has been ill for these many months, and her appearance at the concert—if it wasn't actually a debut—was the first time she has been out for a long, long time. And, of course, many of her friends and acquaintances were more than pleased to see her up and about doing things again.

The Zimbalist concert, by the way, recalled a lot of pleasant memories for Paul W. Williams. . . . Back in 1918, he was music critic for the Youngstown Telegram (which has since gone the way of many newspapers and disappeared from the scene) and covered a concert by Zimbalist—the last one ever given in the old Grand Opera House in Youngstown. . . . And for that concert, Zimbalist played one of the selections he gave last night—the Concerto In E Minor by Mendelssohn. . . . Paul still cherishes an autographed picture Zimbalist gave him that memorable night 21 years ago.

Helen Glattke and her young son, Arthur, jr., are not on the local scene at present—they're spending a few days with Helen's mother in Toledo.

IT SEEMS to be a moot point—whether hearing about summer temperatures makes one feel warmer or colder when a blizzard is under way outside. . . . Anyway the thermometers are registering 82 degrees down in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., these days—according to a card from Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Frankeberger, who are there for the winter. . . . Fred (Pete) Martin is visiting with them . . . and Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman (who are taking a trailer trip through Florida) are spending a few days with them too. . . . They travel to Key West occasionally and hope to attend the Miami dog races soon.

Post script on the spelling bee at the North Lake Park association dinner: When Mrs. Harry Haag succeeded in spelling "jardiniere" correctly after 30 persons had gone down on it, there were only four persons left in the bee—and their superiority was short-lived because they all lost out trying to spell "bologna."

Where Does He Stand?

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

A few days ago I succeeded in meeting the girl I've wanted to meet for a long time. She is very nice and comes from a well-to-do family. We come in contact with each other in business almost every day, and seem to get along "swell." All my friends, who know her, tell me she is going "steady," and some even go so far as to say she's engaged to another man.

However, she leads me to believe she likes me a great deal. How do I go about finding out whether she's going "steady" or is engaged? I don't intend to even try to break up her friendship with another man.

A. S F.

If you find yourself actually falling in love with this girl, why not ask her the direct question: Are you engaged? It's a mistake to let one's self become more involved in a love affair, without knowing where one stands, when a word or two would settle the question.

Perspiration Has Many Causes

By MME. QUI VIVE

Beautifying isn't just surface decoration these days. We know that health has much to do with appearance, and we try to dig down to causes. It is the sensible way to handle pulchritude problems. Dig 'em up, shake 'em out, look 'em over.

There is the matter of excessive perspiration, a trouble that interferes with business and social life. Ordinary cases can be corrected by the daily bath, and faithfulness to deterrents. But there are other cases that are baffling. Skin moisture continues despite hygienic attentions. When ordinary treatments fail to correct an excessive condition, a physician should be consulted

Scrupulous cleanliness is necessary for health and self respect The sweat glands pour forth chemicals which in even a few hours may be very offensive. Dead skin scales add to the debacle and a certain amount of dust is collected. The daily bath should not be a casual shower or a leap-in-and-out of the tub, but a vigorous scouring with soap, warm water and a brush that takes hold like a guilty conscience. Sloshing a soaped wash cloth over the flesh does not make for a thorough renovating.

A clear water massage, dipping the hands in clear water and rubbing the flesh vigorously with the palms, loosens skin scales that are shedding. A soapy bath should follow.

Cosmetic chemists have produced a great number of preparations to be used under the arms where sweat glands are largest and most active. These offerings come in various forms—liquids, solids, creamy substances. If one doesn't work, another will. Directions with these aids should be followed to the letter.

Hints on Etiquette.

If you are giving a dinner or card party where you must have an even number of men and women, and one of your expected guests has to send regrets at the last moment, it is correct to call on some one you know well, but who wasn't included in the first invitation. Explain the situation to him or her, and ask their acceptance as substitute as a special favor to you.

My Neighbor Says:

When hanging short window curtains it will be found an excellent plan to invest in small staples. These driven into woodwork or wall, hold rods firmly in place. If tapes are used, they may be drawn through the staples and fixed so firmly that there is no chance of the "droop" which so often spoils the effect of otherwise attractive curtains

Carrots are a valuable source of calcium and vitamins Older carrots should be cooked. Younger ones may be scraped and served in strips or grated. Calcium is needed for teeth and bone structure. It also regulates heart action and helps to keep the blood normal.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY

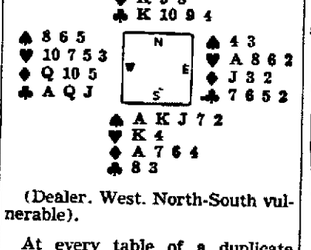
Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

A PILE OF NICKELS

SOMEBODY ASKS IF you have a dollar with you. When you feel in your pocket and look in your wallet, you find not a solitary silver dollar or bill. But you do find a whole pocketful of nickels, dimes and quarters. You can't very well tell your friend then that you haven't a dollar—that is, unless you are trying to duck a "touch."

It is the same in bridge. A handful of kings, queens and jacks can be a whole lot better than one which contains a couple of aces and then drops down to small spot cards.



(Dealer. West. North-South vulnerable).

At every table of a duplicate game, South made a fourth-hand opening of 1-Spade on this deal Then things varied. At one table a North player who likes aces didn't think very much of his cards. He bid a mere 1-No trump and South passed. for bottom score—pretty bad bidding for both partners.

In another case, North responded with 2-No Trump and his willful partner jumped to 4-Spades. Still another development came in North responding to the 1-Spade with 2-Clubs. When South then rebid a 2-Spades, North hopped into 3-No trump and was allowed to play it there. Top score came at the table where, after North's 2-Clubs, South bid 2-No trump and North 3-No trump, not necessarily better bidding than that of the pair just before mentioned, but this South gave the hand a better play and got a little help too

West led the heart 3 to the A, and East switched to a club to the A. Then West switched again to the diamond 5 the J falling to the A. Followed then the heart K, diamond K, heart J and five spades. As the last was played, West had to choose either his diamond Q as a discard or a club from the Q-J. If the former, dummy's 9 would be set up, so he picked a club and the club K-10 made the last two tricks, for five-odd.

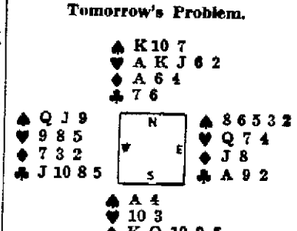
Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer. North North-South vulnerable).

Why is it better in some respects to bid only 2-Diamonds in the South in response to North's 1-Heart, and why better in some respects to bid 3-Diamonds.

How To Live Happily Ever After

There are some 26,000,000 couples living in various degrees of marital bliss in the United States. And there are several million more people who wants to marry, but are being cautious.

To help such perplexed individuals, we asked psychologists, ministers, physicians and marriage counselors to reply to the questions these cautious ones most frequently ask. Their answers will be presented in 12 articles, of which this is the first.

MARRIAGE may be a fine institution—but there are plenty of people who aren't cut out for it.

This may shock the true believers who think anyone is better off married than single. But Dr. Ira S. Wile, New York psychiatrist, admonishes them to face facts.

"We no longer are living in an age when we believe marriages are made in heaven," Dr. Wile asserts. "We know they're made on earth by humans who only recently have acquired the privilege of self-selection. But they still haven't learned to select rightly"

Six Types to Avoid.

According to Dr. Wile, who has made many statistical studies of divorced individuals during his years of mental hygiene study, there are six types of individuals to avoid if you're thinking about matrimony.

Don't marry a man who wants dinner on the dot.

First, the one—male or female—who thinks so well of himself that he doesn't dream he has any flaws. The other person is always wrong, he is always right. If he marries—Heaven forbid—he'll be the domineering, aggressive type, who lords it over a weakling wife (or husband), squabbles about trifles, always has his own way.

The individual who realizes his wants are so numerous that never will he be able to find any person able to fill them is another tough character. He's super-meticulous, fussy. Must have his dinner on the dot of seven or his day is ruined. Or can't stand an ash tray out of place—if a lady. No good for a marriage partner.

The Psychopathics.

As difficult as either of these is the person who thinks he's quite average, but has something so bizarre in his nature that he'd be impossible to live with. Maybe it's a case of not shaving for a couple of weeks, just to be different. Maybe it's something more serious.

Another bad bet for matrimony is the person who over-emphasizes family responsibility. Perhaps he (or she—all these work both ways) has been supporting a widowed mother for so long he feels she won't live happily unless he dashes over to see her every day. His wife is relegated to second place—and will always stay there.

The psychopathic personality—long on freedom, short on responsibility—would drive any marriage partner to drink in no time. Charming, agreeable people, these psychopathic personalities. but always sliding out from under responsibility. You can't grab hold of them. They find it hard to accept prevailing conditions and conventions. And you would find them even harder to live with.

Finally, there's the individual who marries to get a nurse. Plenty do it. But it's too much to expect a wife or a husband to sacrifice all on the altar of the other's health. The moral is, says Dr. Wile—don't fall in love with an incurable invalid.

Don't Wed Your Ideal

Don't marry your ideal. You'll always try to fit him into a picture he can't get into.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I remember so clearly every event of that day," he said. "As if my childish mind had been sharpened by terror, I sensed that beneath the professional poise of everyone connected with the castle there was horror, shock and grief as well as curiosity.

"But, of course, outwardly there was no betrayal of emotion. There was great activity, however, in every corner of the establishment, although it was not until years later that I realized what the news of the night's tragedy had meant to the royal family.

"Fortunately, the mother of the king and of his brother, my father, was dead, buried by the side of her husband, the former king. There was no sister, and the men of the family were made of stern stuff. Nobody knew, they told me later, what the king had felt when the news came, although he might well have been crazed with remorse because his ultimatum had driven his brother to death. He had uttered no word, betrayed no emotion, but a minute or two later had gone to his room where he had shut himself up for an hour. When he emerged, he had taken up the burden of minimizing the awful affair as much as possible for the family and the country.

"That my coming was expected even a child could see. I also saw that it was only in a very limited circle that I was expected. My nurse and I were fairly smuggled in by what I later knew was the entrance to the private rooms of the king's family. We were taken directly to a large suite upon an upper floor, around which my nurse looked critically as soon as we were left alone with our luggage.

"'It will do very well,' she said, and I noticed that she had difficulty in getting words out. Indeed, all that day and for a long time afterward she always seemed on the verge of tears, although I never saw her shed any. But she had been very fond of my mother, and I know now that the strain of keeping me from guessing the truth must have been terrible for her.

"I saw nobody except her that day, for she kept me out of sight even when the serving men brought our meals. dismissing them, and waiting upon me herself. But the next morning came a summons that made her go suddenly white and trembling.

"'It's the king,' she said. 'He wants to see you.'

"'You mean my uncle?' I said, almost mechanically repeating the words I had heard my father speak two nights before in my 'nightmare.'

"Into my nurse's eyes flashed a look of the most abject terror I ever have witnessed. She looked wildly about the apartment to see that no one was within hearing. Then she flew to the door like a wild thing, locked it, and came rushing back to me. She caught me by the shoulders and looked down into my eyes.

"'Don't ever say that word again,' she adjured me. 'Where did you get it?'

"Her fright infected me. I realized one thing: The word 'uncle' was forbidden. I must never, never, reveal what I had heard upon that night of my 'nightmare'

"'I guess I must have dreamed it,' I mumbled. 'But if it's naughty to say it, I promise you I never will say it again.'

"She caught me to her in a strangling embrace

"'It isn't naughty, darling, but it's dangerous. They might kill you for it,' she whispered. 'Don't ever say it again, will you?'"

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, Feb. 25.

A MEMORABLE day is heralded by the interesting and exciting influence of major planets. There may be sudden and surprising events, precipitated with whirlwind force and, while devastating and disturbing, the after-effects will be propitious. There should be much productive work, with the fruition of long-cherished hopes and wishes

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of advancement toward the fulfillment of fond hopes and wishes. Prosperous, productive and happy denouements are to follow sudden and devastating visitations of an unpredictable nature, but after the upheaval there will be rich culminations of cherished objectives. It is a most propitious time for pushing in the direction of high goals.

A child born on this day is likely to be a rather unusual individual. It may be expansive, independent in thought and action, with high ambitions and noble aspirations.

To prepare raisins for use in cakes, cookies or breads cover them with hot water and simmer them for about five minutes. The water will enlarge and soften them.

NEW and EASY to make with Spry!
Try these muffins today

CHERRY MUFFINS
Tender, spicy, with sugar-frosted tops

2½ cups sifted flour
3¼ teaspoons baking powder
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1¼ cups milk
⅓ cup Spry, melted
½ cup red pitted cherries, drained

Sift flour with baking powder, sugar, cinnamon and salt. Combine beaten egg, milk and melted Spry.

Turn liquids into dry ingredients and stir vigorously until all flour is dampened. The batter will look lumpy. (Don't overstir.) Pour batter into muffin pans greased with Spry. Put 3 cherries in center of each muffin and sprinkle generously with sugar

Bake in hot oven (400° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Makes 12 large muffins. Notice how extra-light and tender muffins are, made this easy Spry way.
